FIRE MENACES CITY

BLAZE SWEEPS THRU TOWN

KANE, Pa., Sept. 17.—Fire is sweeping thru the town of Marionville, thirty miles from here, according to a telephone message received by the Kane fire department today asking for aid. A hotel and twelve other buildings have been destroyed with loss of $200,000. The town is located in a forest and danger of a forest fire is imminent unless the fire is checked.

WANTS A SAFE CROSSING.

August E. Holmberg, a farmer of Wayne county, has filed a second request with the state railway commission for an order on the Omaha railroad company to put in an underground crossing on his farm. The road cuts off about eighteen acres of pasture, which can be reached only by a level grade crossing, and Holmberg says that the danger to himself and his stock has compelled him to cut down the size of his herd to his considerable damage. He says that his first request was denied several years ago, but that since then he has reached the advanced age of 59 years, and it is getting very inconvenient and dangerous to use the grade crossing.

Death of Miss Ulrich.

BEATRICE, Neb., Sept. 17.—Eunice Ulrich, aged twenty, daughter of C. F. Ulrich of the Pickrell neighborhood, died in Omaha, Monday.

Increase in World Trade.

New York Sun: In discussing conditions in the trade of the world we are too often obliged to depend upon general statements, supported by a specific citation of conditions in only three or four countries. The National City bank has rendered a service by publishing the statistics of the foreign trade of twenty-one of the leading countries of the world for the first six months of this year compared with the first half of 1923.

This compilation reveals a remarkable improvement in conditions. Of the twenty-one nations all but four show increases in imports, and all but two exported more. The imports of the United Kingdom advanced from 475 million pounds in the first half of 1923 to 521 million pounds in the first half of the present year; exports advanced from 383 million pounds to 388 million pounds. Improvement in the French Belgian, Czecho-Slovakian, Italian and Japanese trade was more striking.

In spite of the preaching of economists ever since the days of Adam Smith, the notion that exports are an unmixed advantage for a country, while imports are something of a handicap, still clings around popular ideas. Even where the idea is not present in this crude form theer is still a feeling that increased exports at least indicate better economic conditions within a nation, while increased imports indicate unsound conditions.

Yet the truth, in particular instance, may be just the contrary. An increase of exports may result from a falling off in home demand which drives producers to the foreign market. An increase of imports, on the other hand, may be the result of an industrial revival, leading to increased importations of raw materials; or it may reflect a prosperity which permits the home population to buy more goods from abroad and increase its standard of living.

Relief for Her.

Chicago News: Jones went home feeling very pleased with himself. He had some pleasant news for his wife. He told her he had insured himself for one thousand dollars.

She said: "Thank goodness for that. Now I need not keep on telling you to be careful when you cross the street."

Eighty out of a total of over 300 of Gainsborough's paintings were landscapes.

JOHNSON SENT TO THE MOUND

DUNN FIELD, CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 17.—Walter Johnson, Washington pitching ace, was sent to the mound today to hold the Cleveland Indians in check, that the Senators might maintain their slim lead over the New York Yankees.

Johnson was opposed in the box by Sherry Smith, of the Indians.

About 30,000 fans braved cold and gloomy weather to see Johnson in action.

Waite Hoyt Against Shocker.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 17.—Waite Hoyt, pitching ace of the Yankee pennant contenders, was sent to the mound by Miller Huggins in the first game of today's double header. Urban Shocker, the Browns' best pitcher was on the hill for the St. Louis team. The first five innings were scoreless.

Rained Out in National.

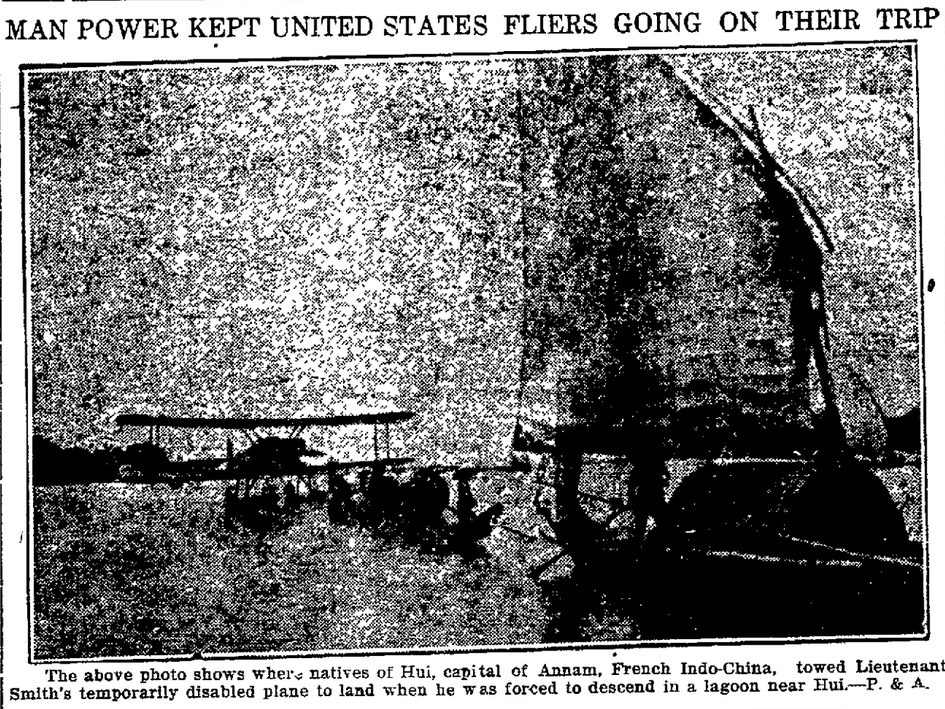

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Prevailing grains thru the eastern circuit of the National league kept all the pennant contending clubs idle today and made impossible any change in the standing. Games between the Giants and the Reds, the Robins and the Cardinals, and the Pirates and the Phils were called off on account if rain.

TOOK BABE FROM PARENTS

Use of Lipstick and Powder Puff in Court by Two-Year-Old Causes Decision.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—A baby's use of a lip-stick and a powder puff in his court room caused Justice Levy, in habeas corpus proceedings here today to decide that neither Courtland H. Young, wealthy magazine publisher, nor his wife, who was Dorothea Campbell, former Follies girl, is fit to have custody of their child.

The parents are fighting for possession of the little girl, two years old, following their separation.

"There was a little scene in this court room yesterday that I noticed," the justice said, in announcing his intention to take the baby from her parents and send it to a Catholic institution.

"I saw this little girl go to a lady's bag, open it, take out a lip stick, apply it to her lips and then draw forth a powder puff and mirror and use the puff.

"I am not making any announcements against lip-sticks or powder puffs but when it comes to such things in the hands of a child of her baby years——"

And the justice stopped and shook his head.

Young had brought the habeas corpus action on the grounds that his wife if morally unfit to have custody of the child. He recited a long list of her alleged indiscretions and the former show girl replied charging him with brutality during periods of intoxication.

Justice Levy heard the charges and counter-charges with evident disgust and finally announced his decision.

First Words of Flier on Alighting at Fort Crook Are Request for Smoke.

OMAHA, Sept. 17.—"Gimme a cigaret," were the first words of Lieutenant Smith as he climbed from the cockpit of his plane, at Fort Crook today.

Gurley Talks of Europe.

OMAHA, Sept. 17.—W. F. Gurley, Omaha lawyer, who with Mrs. Gurley is just back after a two month stay in Europe, finds the most encouraging evidence of future stability in the allied countries in the fact that the children appear well fed and happy and active.

"In England, Scotland, Belgium and France I observed that the children seemed healthy and well nourished," Mr. Gurley said. "I could not say the same about the workmen. While the workmen did not seem to be actually suffering from lack of food on the whole, they looked undernourished. One thing I noted, practically no wage earner in these countries rides in an automobile. Belgium seems to be the country that has most nearly returned to normal conditions."

FANNIE HURST IS THRU

Authoress Went to Russia and Found It to Be "a Great Slum."

PARIS, France, Sept. 18.—When Miss Hurst came to France last spring for what was to have been a six months' tour of Europe, she could hardly wait to get to Russia, the land which she thought had realized her pet Marxian theories. She stayed there two months, and when she returned here she could hardly wait for the first boat to sail for her beloved America, comfortably removed from that "pestering sore," that "great slum" as she characterized the Russia of today.

The authoress had had enough and was "ready to climb down from the soapbox." The new Russia was not the golden land of her dreams, but "a great beast, half stupid, half mad, on its back and dying."

"I am so glad to get out that I could kiss the cobblestones," she said. "I was even happy to get back to Berlin, which I have always hated. Out of squalor and filth, and the awful poverty one meets everywhere in Russia."

With her husband, the authoress visited Leningrad, Moscow, and many smaller cities. They were shown every courtesy by the officials but their eyes were not blinded by the facts.

"The reign of terror still prevails in Russia," she said. "The tyranny of the peasant instead of the czar controls the people. Trotzky is the only man who has the white light of inspiration. In everyone's face you see fear—overwhelming fear. Russia is terrified by a phantom army—the secret service. No two persons dare to talk together in criticism of the communist government because of the terrible suspicion in the mind of each that the other is a spy. I should prefer to die than to live under a red terror."

DR. NYCE TALKS TO CLUB

Reminds Pathfinders That Invisible World Is More Real Than Material.

Dr. B. M. Nyce was the principal speaker at the Pathfinder luncheon Wednesday at the chamber of commerce. He commented on some characteristics of the present time, whose outstanding feature, he said, was speed, and its motto, "Step On It!" and then reminded his hearers that the invisible world is, after all, the real.

"Thru invention and discovery we have mastered great cosmic forces which we cannot see except thru what they do," Doctor Nyce said. "Nobody knows what electricity is, or ther, or radio, or gravitation, but we have harnessed them all, and drive them with that invisible, intangible force called the human mind. This in turn is dominated by even stronger forces, equally impossible to apprehend by the senses, and the strongest of these is love. It is the soul and center of patriotism, courtesy, loyalty, religion and ethics. It even makes one control his temper! Instead of the proverb, 'Seeing is believing,' I would suggest that we say, 'Believing is seeing'."

WORLD FLIERS REACH OMAHA

WING WAY TO NEBRASKA

World Fliers Reach Omaha at 12:44 p. m.

LAND AT FORT CROOK FIELD

Huge Crowd Welcomes Girdlers of Air.

Early Fog Dispelled and Birdmen Altered Route Slightly to Fly Over Council Bluffs.

FORT CROOK, FLYING FIELD, OMAHA, Sept. 17.—The army world fliers safely completed their hop from Chicago to Omaha today, landing at Fort Crook flying field at 12:55 p. m.

Carefully circling the field, Lieut. Lowell H. Smith commander of the fliers, made a perfect landing. He was followed a moment later by Lieutenant Wade in the Boston II. Lieutenant Nelson then brought his plane safely to the ground.

As the planes landed, a crowd estimated at 15,000 broke thru the rows of sentry guardnig the field and nearly mobbed the fliers. They were escorted to a platform, where Charles Gardner, secretary of the Ak-Sar-Ben Omaha booster society, introduced them to the crowd thru a megaphone.

"It was one of the pleasant legs of the entire journey," Lieut. Smith said. "The weather was ideal thruout the entire trip from Chicago.

"The sun shone brightly thruout until within a few miles of Omaha when we ran into partly cloudy weather. There was practically no wind and what little there was blowing was from the east, which aided us materially."

The fliers will spend the night quietly, resting up for the next hop to St. Joseph, Mo., which will be made tomorrow morning, weather permitting.

OMAHA, Sept. 17.—The army round-the-world fliers flew over Omaha at 12:44 p. m. today. They circled about the business district and then headed for the landing field at Fort Crook, eighteen miles south.

More than 3,000 persons were at the fort two hours before the fliers were scheduled to arrive. They had a carnival air, buying and eating "hot dogs" and popcorn at the concession stands erected to take care of the throng.

By 12:30 p. m. roads leading to the flying field were choked with automobiles.

Officers at the fort announced that sentries would keep the crowd fifty feet from the edges of the landing field until all seven planes have landed. The crowds will then be permitted to surge onto the field and congratulate the globe girdlers.

MAYWOOD FLYING FIELD, CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—Twenty-four hours behind the western schedule, the army world fliers hopped off to Omaha at 9:11 a. m. today. The distance is 440 miles and Lieut. Lowell H. Smith, commander, said he expected the squadron to arrive in time for lunch.

The fog which shrouded the field early in the day vanished under a flood of bright sunshine, enabling the fliers to make their belated start, scheduled for yesterday morning.

There are seven machines in the squadron, the three army world fliers, two airplanes accompanying them from Maine and two army planes from Chanute field here. These latter planes are leading the way to Omaha and expect to accompany the fliers as far as St. Joseph, Mo.

The machines will change their route a trifle to pass over Council Bluffs, Ia. When they reach Omaha they will fly over the west side over the stadium and then turn south to the field a short distance from the city.

The two Chanute Field planes will make a stop at Iowa City, Ia., to refuel. The machines are much smaller than the other machines in the squadron, and their fuel capacity is correspondingly smaller Visibility was excellent, the squadron being clearly visible for many miles.

The air mail plane from Omaha arrived shortly after the world fliers departed. The pilot reported fine weather all the way east

DES MOINES, Ia., Sept 17—Crossing directly over the city in their usual "V" formation, the three army globe girdlers, Lieutenants Smith, Nelson and Wade, accompanied by a convoy of other planes, passed here today at 11.22 a. m

FIRE DAMAGE AT MIDWEST

OVER $5,000 LOSS IS ESTIMATE AT SUPPLY WAREHOUSE.

Flames Get Start in Early Morning at Building, 708 O Street —Packing Houses Sustain Smoke Damage.

Damage estimated at between $5,000 and $7,000 was suffered at the Midwest Supply company, 708 O street, in an early morning blaze Wednesday which is thought to have originated thru spontaneous combustion in the rear of the store room. The stock of flour and feed valued at between $8,000 and $10,000, will be almost a total loss.

Smoke damage amounting to several hundred dollars was sustained at both the Morrell and the Cudahy packing companies, to meats, according to their managers. Their quarters occupy the same building with the Midwest Supply. The fire, however, was confined to the supply company's section.

Firemen received the alarm at 6:17 a. m. and within twenty minutes had the fire extinguished in spite of the dense smoke which hung over the place. The fogginess of the morning and absence of wind augmented this condition. A heavy blanket of smoke had settled in the basement where several thousand dollars worth of stock was stored. The water damage there was slight as the stock had been piled on raised racks.

Old records of the company which were stored in the warehouse, were destroyed by water where the fire had spared them. This will not affect the business of the company as the current records were in the office in front which was untouched by the blaze.

The fire started in a corner of the warehouse where sacks of charcoal were piled, according to Fire Chief Hansen who thought that hot charcoal or spontaneous combustion in that quarter was responsible for the conflagration.

The company will be doing business as usual within a few days, T. R. Samuelson, manager, stated. It will be necessary to remodel the interior, reroof and install new windows besides procuring a new stock of feeds and flour.

G. W. NORRIS IN LINCOLN

FIRST CALL IS UPON REPUBLICAN STATE COMMITTEE.

Will Give Such Time as Is Desired to Campaign—To Make a Report of His Stewardship.

Senator George W. Norris arrived on Tuesday evening after a journey of a week from Waupaca, Wis., where he has been resting for about six weeks. He found the weather in Washington trying and left about the first of July. After a leisurely journey thru the Allegheny mountains he went to Wisconsin for his summer vacaton.

Senator Norris is apparently in excellent health and is now ready to devote all of the time that may be desired to the campaign in Nebraska. His first call upon arriving in Lincoln was upon the republican state central committee. He is spending considerable time with Chairman Sackett and the other officers during the day arranging for his speaking dates thruout the state. His first visit, it is understood, will be to Grand Island, where a meeting has been arranged for him. This is in his old congressional district, and his friends in that part of the state wish to give him a welcome.

Senator Norris entered congress twenty-two years ago, and has been speaking in the state during every campaign since that time. His friends say that ever since he entered public life he has made it a practice to speak his mind with great frankness. His speeches have never been of a partisan nature, and they do not expect him to depart from his custom this fall. He is expected to make a report of his stewardship as senator from Nebraska and to tell the people of the state what he knows about the affairs of the national government from his advantageous point of view. They say that he will not discuss any subjects on which he is not fully informed.

Will Follow the Record.

In the campaign which he intends to make, Senator Norris will follow the lines of his record in congress. He defines a progressive as one who believes in the application of honest business principles to government, and government as the effort to insure life, liberty and happiness for its people.

Senator Norris intends to apply these tests to the issues coming before him. He puts his obligation to these principles above his obligation to partnership or partisan leadership. He claims and grants the right of any official to follow his conscientious convictions and to criticise wrong whether he finds it in his own party or elsewhere.

He has followed this course. "If I am wrong," Senator Norris says, "I do not deserve the support of members of my party. Since I was

Hail is reported on the morning of September 15 by policy holders in state hail insurance in Clay, Platte, Madison and Brown counties. This makes four hail storms during the season in Platte, Brown and Madison counties. Adjusters will visit the field alleged to have been damaged. Auto Section to Be Longer and Better and Clowns to Surpass All Efforts in That Line.

Spurred on by the success of opening night, the committee in charge of the corn carnival and clown parade, which is the next number on the fall festival program, worked harder than ever Wednesday. Plans are practically finished, Raymond Farquhar, chairman, announced. "A great parade is assured," said he. "Many individuals registered Tuesday and a score of business firms entered with all sorts of humorous stunts. The parade Friday night promises to be more original this year than ever before with real thought and effort being put into the business floats in order to amuse the crowds." Altho a large number have registered for the individual clown group, many more are wanted.

The automobile section of the parade this year will be much larger than the one of last year. More than one hundred cars, including the newest models in all the makes sold in Lincoln, will be in line. Clown torch bearers will furnish illumination for this section.

The coronation which will take place at the auditorium will be a big event of the evening. The boy scouts who will aid in policing the streets for the parade will act as guard for the king and queen when they march from their float to the throne which will be erected on the stage. After this event, the clowns and other fun makers will keep the carnival going for the rest of the evening.

BRYAN WILL BREAK LEASH

CANNOT BE KEPT PENT UP IN HIS HOME STATE.

Governor Announces Plans of Campaign—Contemplates Tour of Several States Other Than Nebraska.

Is Governor Bryan as a vice presidential candidate being held back by the democratic national committee from campaigning in the great west, a region where the governor contends the real political battle is to be fought?

It has been represented that all dates for Davis and Bryan are supervised if not actually dictated by the national committee. No dates for speeches by Governor Bryan have been announced by the national committee. The governor has thrown little light on the situation. He has been tugging at his leash but has not gone outside of his own state. He has arranged dates for speaking in Nebraska and has actually commenced a speaking campaign. These dates have been announced by the democratic state committee.

Regardless of whether the national committee consents Governor Bryan contemplates making speeches outside of his own state.

"I plan a speaking campaign which will include several states outside of Nebraska," said Governor Bryan. "This campaign will begin the forepart of October and continue up to the election. I expect to speak in states where the situation at that time suggests."

When asked if he would go east or west he said that has not been definitely determined. He said he had invitations from Kansas, Indiana, Maryland, West Virginia, Minnesota and all the agricultural states and Pacific coast states.

In regard to W. J. Bryan's dates for campaign speeches Governor Bryan has something definite. Invitations for his brother which are received by the speakers bureau of the national committee are referred to W. J. Bryan and by him referred to Governor Bryan, this being done to prevent duplication of oratory in the same field.

It is announced by the governor that W. J. Bryan is now on the Pacific coast where he has made three speeches. Mrs. Bryan is visiting her daughter at Los Angeles. W. J. Bryan spoke Tuesday night at Portland, Ore. He has tentative engagements to speak at the following places on dates not determined: Pendleton, Ore., Seattle, Tacoma, Spokane, Boise, Idaho, Salt Lake City, Reno. Mr. Bryan will then go back to Los Angeles and speak in southern California, then at Oakland, Los Angeles, San Diego, San Bernardino.

Mr. Bryan will leave Los Angeles with Mrs. Bryan, October 1, for their winter home in Florida. He will remain there one week and come west, probably reaching Lincoln the 14th or 15th of October, and additional dates for his addresses will be arranged here with Governor Bryan's aid. W. J. JAIL FOR SWEATER THEFT

Youth Must Spend Fifteen Days in Confinemnet Following Admission of Guilt.

Despite his claim that a fraternal motive caused him to take a sweater from a girl, Ara Fuller, Tuesday, Howard Plank, twenty, of Beatrice, was sentenced to fifteen days in the county jail Wednesday morning when he entered a plea of guilt to a charge of petit larceny in Justice Stevens' court. He was arrested Wednesday forenoon when Ara Fuller reported her loss to the police. Officer Edwards took him from a bus which was about to leave for Beatrice.

Plank stated that a friend of his who had moved to Oregon had loaned the sweater to the girl and he had promised his friend to retrieve it when he came to Lincoln. With that object in view, he visited the girl Tuesday and when he broached the subject of the sweater she announced her intention of keeping it so he threw it out of the window and took it with him when he left.

NO WOMEN UPON JURY

STEVE BORAS GIVES THAT AS REASON FOR NEW TRIAL.

Attorney General Takes Position That Under Existing Law They Are Not Legally Qualified.

Attorney General Spillman filed an extended brief in supreme court Wednesday in which he discusses the question of whether women are legally qualified to act as jurors in Nebraska. He was impelled to this by the fact that Steve Boras, an Omahan, got a year in prison for taking a few shots at W. L. Tindell, with whom he was at feud and who, he claims, tried to draw first.

The principal point urged by Boras' attorneys in support of their demand for a new trial is that women were stricken from the jury when called in his case. He says that this deprived him of the equal protection of the law guaranteed by the constitution, and asks the court to so rule.

Mr. Spillman says that while women are otherwise qualified to act as jurors and should be given that right, the legislature has never seen fit to do so. The present jury law says that males only shall be called. It was passed before women were given the right to vote, and Boras' attorney used this to base an argument that when the women were given equal suffrage this wiped out their bar against serving on juries. Mr. Spillman says that as a matter of law, suffrage and jury service are unconnected.

The constitution of the United States and of Nebraska, he says, contains nothing relating to jurors' qualifications, and this leaves the legislature free to say who shall be called. In law serving on a jury is a duty and not a right, and the legislature has full right to choose who shall serve as jurors. It could have called on women to serve before they got the right of suffrage if it had wished to do so.

Mr. Spillman ridicules the proposition that Boras was denied equal protection of the law because women were not allowed to help try him. Certainly a male cannot complain because none but men tried him, and it was no discrimination against him when women were dismissed.

CROWD GREETS DAVIS

DES MOINES, Ia., Sept. 17.—A monster crowd greeted John W. Davis, democratic candidate for president, when he arrived here today.

His swollen arm, the result of handshaking with Missouri democrats apparently was better, as he greeted the crowd with a radiant smile and extended his hand to all nearby.

Davis was taken immediately to Hotel Fort Des Moines where he went into conference with Iowa campaign managers.

WHEELER CHARGES BLACKMAIL ATTEMPT

Declares "Ohio Gang Headed By Daugherty" Seeking To "Get" Him.

WOULD INTIMIDATE HIM

Progressive Nominee Makes Accusations at Cleveland.

WORING ON ROXIE STINSON

Montana Senator Asserts "It Will Take More Than Injunction and Blackmail to Restrain Me."

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 17.—Senator Burton K. Wheeler charged in a statement here today that "the Ohio gang headed by Harry Daugherty and assisted by the Burns detective agency and the republican national committee" are threatening blackmail proceedings against him to intimidate his independent vice presidential campaign.

Wheeler declared he has been informed that a damage suit would be instituted against him when he reaches Columbus tomorrow, by a person who has made several previous unsuccessful efforts to blackmail him.

Efforts are also being made by the same interests to induce Roxie Stinson, star witness against Daugherty in the recent senate investigation to repudiate her story, Wheeler said.

Wheeler's statement follows:

"Coming into Ohio to start the campaign for the progressive ticket, both Mrs. Wheeler and I are wondering what the Ohio gang, headed by Daugherty and ably assisted by the Burns agency and the republican national committee, expect to start while we are here.

"We know that Blair Coan, who has been working for the republican national committee, who was sent to Montana with instructions to 'get' Senator Thomas J. Walsh and myself, and who in conjunction with the Burns detective agency, framed the indictment against me, in order to put a stop to the investigation, has been trying, thru different mediums, to get Roxie Stinson to follow in the footsteps of George Remus, the bootlegger now in Atlanta penitentiary and repudiate her sworn testimony before the committee. We know that Coan, working for the republican national committee, has been endeavoring to get other witnesses to repudiate their stories, offering inducements to them for so doing.

"We have also been informed that Mr. Coan, working in conjunction with Burns, Daugherty and the republican organization intends to have a blackmailing suit started against me when I reach Columbus, a suit for damages which every lawyer in Montana and the northwest refused to handle when a similar attempt was made to blackmail me by the same person in the same manner during my campaign for the United States senate two years ago.

"I refused then to be held up and I shall refuse now. I serve notice on this corrupt gang that it will take more than injunction, blackmail and framed up indictments to stop me from attempting to drive from public office the crooked republican officials who are undermining the faith of the people in their government."

"Daugherty exemplified the boss rule of the present administration, and altho he is gone, his henchmen remain as subordinates in office to carry on his work," Wheeler declared in explanation of his Ohio campaign. "His influence still lives in Washington thru his workers, and bad as was A. Mitchell Palmer, in the height of his lawless career he looked like 30 cents compared with Daugherty and his forty thieves."

Encouraging reports were received by Wheeler concerning prospects of the LaFollette ticket in Pennsylvania and Ohio. Labor leaders informed him he may count on second place in Allegheny county of which Pittsburgh is the center.

In Ohio railroad brotherhood officers reported LaFollette has a chance of carrying the state.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17—Sherman Burns, son of William J Burns and acting head of the Burns detective agency today denied all knowledge of an alleged "blackmail suit" which Senator Burton K Wheeler charged was being prepared against him

"I imagine it's just Wheeler's guilty conscience troubling him," Burns said

"He sees the handwriting on the wall"

MOUNT STERLING, O., Sept 17 - "I don't know anything about any suit against Wheler I'm not interested in Wheeler or what he does I'm not interested in any individual men"

This was the reply today of Harry M Daugherty, former attorney general, to the statement of

THE WEATHER.

For Lincoln and Vicinity: Unsettled tonight and Thursday, probably showers; warmer tonight.

For Nebraska Unsettled tonight and Thursday, probably showers, warmer tonight north portion; cooler Thursday northwest portion.

Senator Wheeler, independent candidate for the vice presidency, that Daugherty planned to start blackmail proceedings against him on his arrival tomorrow in Columbus.

Daugherty, here on business said he "didn't care enough about Wheeler's campaign even to think about intimidating it."

"All I know is that Wheeler was in an automobile accident once with a woman, but that's just one of the many things Wheeler has to worry aobut. Wheler must have wheels."

STANDS BY ITS DECREE

SUPREME COURT OVERRULES MOTION FOR REHEARING.

Takes Unusual Step of Striking Out From Its Opinion in Liberty Bond Case a Portion Thereof.

The supreme court entered an order Wednesday overruling the motion of the department of trade and commerce for a rehearing of the case which involved the validity, as a claim against the guaranty fund, of the North American Fire insurance company of Omaha for $15,000. It also did the unusual, it struck out from the opinion in the case two paragraphs, holding they are not necessary to a decision. These involve the legality of the transaction.

When C. W. Wentz was operating the American State bank at Aurora, he made a deal with the officials of the insurance company by which it handed over to him $15,000 of liberty bonds and received a certificate of deposit for that amount. After the bank failed the receiver challenged the validity of the certificate, contending it took on the legal character of a loan, but the court gave the company judgment for the market value of the bonds at the time of the transaction, $13,700.

The company then asked the court, in view of what it said in its opinion, to increase the judgment to $15,000, the face value of the bonds. Now the court denies this application, and to make the record clear it elides the two paragraphs in which the transaction is discussed.

One paragraph said that liberty bonds may be received and held by banks at their face value in order to create or maintain the reserve required by law. It held them to be the same as cash or equivalent to negotiable paper convertible at par into money. While the claimant held the bonds in controversy they were available at face value for a like purpose. In negotiating for them as a deposit at Wentz's suggestion it was a lawful transaction. The other said that in contemplation of law there was turned over to the bank the equivalent of $15,000 cash for a legitimate banking purpose and the company received the same amount in a time certificate of deposit at a lawful rate.

PAYS PRICE OF GOTHAM

EDITH WEEKS AND FRIEND LOSE $100,000 GEMS.

"Madame Bobe" of Style Shop and Standard Oil Official Are Beaten Senseless in Her Apartment.

NEW YORK, Sept 17.—Another girl has come out of the west, received Broadway's largesse and paid Broadway's price. Edith Weeks, late of Detroit, today nursed a cut and bruised face from which three teeth were missing and wondered if it was all worth while.

Edith is the "Madame Bobe" of New York's latest sensational jewel robbery, of which the perpetrators remain unapprehended. She and Robert L. Hague, marine superintendent of the Standard Oil company, were beaten senseless Monday night and robbed of gems worth nearly $100,000.

Only chance decreed that "Madame Bobe" was spared the fate that overtook "Dot" King and Louise Lawson, other moths around the white light district's flame, who enjoyed the patronage of wealthy men and paid with their lives for success in their chosen profession.

Twelve years ago Edith Weeks brought a pretty figure, a face that is called "attractive" and an indominatable determination to succeed, to Broadway from her home in Detroit.

Her start was humble enough. The cloak and suit trade offered an opening. Edith's persistence and a flair for leadership did the rest. In a few short years, she was "Madame Bobe" with an expensive shop and an expensive home in that part of the upper East Side which is fashionable. The girl from Detroit was gone and in her place was a svelte, domineering parisienne, who mingled with her clients on terms of equality and entertained them on a lavish scale in her exotic home.

Count von Bernstorff was among her male escorts in the old days and another count, Salm von Hoogstraeten, he who married Millicent Rogers, filled a niche in her later life. Actresses and actors knew her familiarly as "Bobe" which they pronounced as tho it rhymed with adobe.

There was an extravagant birthday party at Edith's extraordinary home Saturday night. Thru the extravagantly decorated rooms with their Louis Quinze furniture—the bedroom held an extraordinary gilt, brocaded and upholstered bed on a raised dias—the laughter of ninety guests and the popping of corks sounded until dawn.

Edith was reprimanded and promised the landloard to be good for she said she was going to marry Robert Hague, who played host at her birthday party. He gave her a diamond bracelet with 432 round diamonds and 100 lesser stones, an ermine coat worth $4,000, a gold clock and some other trinkets.

Monday night, when Edith and her fiance were out for the evening, a "man from the drug store" appeared at the barred grill entrance of "Madame Bobe's" home with a package. A negro maid, after some hesitancy, admitted him. The "package" proved a black jack. The maid went to sleep. The man had accomplices and admitted them. They ransacked the unusual boudior and bar and workshop of Edith Weeks and sat down to an orgy of wine and cigars to await her return. Edith and Hague returned early—about half past eleven. As the front door yielded to the turn of her little gold key, a muscular man standing in the shadows of the hallway made a swipe with a blackjack which was meant to crash on her bobbed curls. His arm was bad and the weapon cut a gash in one of the plump cheeks and knocked out three teeth.

Another blow put her escort out of commission.

Edith fought like a tigress. She was hurled against a $1,000 lamp which crashed to ruin. A thug took her by the throat and beat her head against a priceless vase. The men tore the new bracelet worth $10,000 from her dimpled arm and took rings and baubles worth a king's ransom, when finally they departed, not neglecting Hague's watch and cigaret case and "roll".

They have been few clues unearthed. It is believed that some of the guests at Edith's birthday party were inspired to perpetrate the robbery, for she numbered among her close acquaintances a few who were quite capable of it.

THOUSANDS IN PROTEST

SIGN PETITION ASKING GRANT PARDONED.

Over Dozen Woman's Clubs Take up Fight to Save Life of Youth, Condemned to Hanging.

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—Thousands of persons from all walks of life are signing the pardon petition for Bernard Grant, nineteen, under sentence of death in connection with a murder, Attorney Thomas E Swanson, in charge of the fight to secure money for the poverty-stricken boy, announced today.

More than a dozen women's clubs have taken up the fight, Swanson said. A mass meeting of heads of these clubs was called in Swanson's office for today to adopt resolutions condemning interpretation of the law to favor the rich.

"They all agree that if Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb, sons of millionaires, are too young to hang, then Grant, who is of the same age, but poor, is too young to hang," Swanson said.

Swanson today formally invited Clarence Darrow, who saved Leopold and Loeb from the gallows for their murder of Bobby Franks, to assist in saving Grant. Darrow yesterday announced he would take a hand in the fight on his return from his vacation at the Loeb summer home at Chaplevoix, Mich.

A telegram sent by Swanson to Darrow today follows:

"Your telephone message about the Grant case was received at my office during the Leopold-Loeb trial. I considered you too much occupied then for a conference. Dispatches quote you as saying you would be glad to assist in the Grant case but that your services had not been requested. There is a standing request for your great aid in every case where oppressed humanity cries out because of injustice. I welcome your assistance in this case in behalf of justice and humanity and shall withhold mailing the petition to the governor until I hear from you."

Swanson said he expected to have 25,000 residents of Chicago and Cook county sign the petition. Today he received the copy of a letter sent to Governor Small by the men's bible class of the Methodist church of Greenwood, Ind The letter follows:

"Believing thoroly that there should be no discrimination in criminal cases in this country in favor of wealth and that even the hint of such a condition should be promptly and fearlessly met, we the men of the Methodist church at Greenwood, Ind., earnestly solicit clemency at your hands for Bernard Grant."

This resolution was adopted by unanimous vote, the latter stated.

Pastors of Chicago are encouraging Swanson to carry on the fight.

Rev. Simon Peter Long, of the Wicker Park Lutheran church, said:

"I believe the law has been badly interpreted by Judge Caverly. Now that he has made his interpretation however, it would be highly unjust to exact a stricter inetrpretation in Grant's case because there are no high salaried attorneys and alienists taking part in the defense."

Mayor Dever of Chicago has sent a pardon resolution to the council asking that it be adopted and sent to Governor Small.

Dr. Agnes Lewis, St. Cloud, Minn., urged Swanson to fight to the last, stating he had the sympathy and support of the women of St. Cloud.

NEW DAVIS IN CAMPAIGN

DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE IS A MILITANT CRUSADER.

Changes From Retiring Lawyer Reluctantly Facing Audiences to Vigorous Speaker With Message.

ENROUTE WITH JOHN W. DAVIS TO DES MOINES, Sept. 17.—A new John W. Davis was swinging thru Iowa today on the last lap of his first invasion of the west.

In the two and a half weeks Davis has spent in the west his advisers on the trip have seen him change from a retiring lawyer reluctantly facing his audiences into a militant crusader with a message.

When he speaks to the Iowa farmers tonight on tariff and taxation, democratic leaders say that he will put even more vigor into his utterances than he did at Bunceton, Mo., where the enthusiasm of the monster meeting seemed to inspire him with a new confidence.

"The west has acted like a tonic on Davis," said Representative Cordell Hull of Tennessee, former chairman of the democratic national committee who is accompanying Davis on the trip.

"I have never seen such a change come over a man in so brief a time. Frankly, when Davis left New York he felt that he was leading a forlorn hope. But he carried on like a good soldier shouldering the responsibilities that had been thrust upon him by his party.

"Since coming west and getting in contact with the people, Davis has grown daily in enthusiasm until today he is a militant crusader for the cause of honest government with an abiding confidence of victory.

"I have watched Davis in all his speeches. It has been an amazing study in psychology.

"In every speech his tone has grown bolder and more confident. He no longer says 'if I am elected president.' He says, 'I will be elected.'"

Davis has a busy day before him in Des Moines. Immediately upon his arrival he will go to his hotel where he will confer with state leaders. He is scheduled to make a brief speech at a luncheon and his main speech at night in the city auditorium.

HESSIAN FLIES HATCHING

State Entomologist Reports on Activities at Stations Observed.

Myron H. Swenk, state entomologist, reports the Hessian fly as having renewed its activity following the rainy spell The rain of September 11 (of about one inch), and the cool weather following it, interrupted egg-laying at the Wahoo, Saunders county, station (No. 1) for forty-eight hours, but it was resumed on September 13, and on September 15 there occurred the first strong wave of egg-laying (285 eggs being laid on 100 marked wheat plants) accompanied by augmented field activity by the flies (screen count 100). The emergence during the past four days has increased at that station from 49.7 per cent on September 11, to 58.1 per cent on September 15. At the Beatrice, Gage county, station (No. 2), only a light shower fell on September 11, and emergence has not been stimulated so strongly as at the Wahoo station. The emergence at that station during the past four days has increased, however, from 16.2 per cent on September 11, to 25 6 per cent on September 15. A rainfall of about a half inch on September 15 at the Beatrice station should stimulate emergence there with the coming of warmer weather. On September 13, Raymond Roberts took charge of the Beatrice station, relieving Don B Whelan for work elsewhere, and a special field day was held at the station, where the work being done and the habits of the Hessian fly were explained by M H Swenk to a large group of farmers called together by the Gage county agent, Boyd Rist

At the Harrison county station (northwestern Iowa), 26 per cent of the flies had emerged by September 12, at the Mills county station (southwestern Iowa), 22 per cent had emerged by September 10, and at the Henry county station (southeastern Iowa) 47 per cent had emerged by September 11

FIGURES ON RAILROADS

GET IN MORE REVENUE BUT MAKE NO MORE MONEY.

Summary of Reports Made by State Commission Expert Shows Thirteen Years' Experience.

U. G. Powell, expert for the state railway commission, has compiled for the information of that body and of the public figures showing the financial experience of the eight railroads doing business in Nebraska. This shows that while the railroads have more property devoted to public use than in 191, from which date the figures are brought forward to and including last year, and while their revenues have doubled, they are not making any more money than they did in 1912 and not quite as much as in 1911

In order to secure a hard and fast measure, Mr. Powell adopted a transportation unit as his yardstick. This is found by multiplying the number of annual passengers carried one mile by three, and to the amount so found add the annual tons of freight carried a mile

The revenue of these roads, on their Nebraska business in 1911 was 55 millions. Following that came a drop and the revenues did not again reach that figure until 1916, when they ran up to 62 millions. In the succeeding years they kept on increasing, by leaps and bounds, until 1920, when they ran up to 119 millions. The next year they dropped to 108 millions and in 1922 to 105 millions, but went back to 111 millions in 1923.

While this is a little better than double the revenue of 1911, when the transportation unit is applied in mills the increase is but a third Meanwhile the expenses have increased, in mills, just 50 per cent. Operating expenses in 1911 were 35 millions They kept dropping the next four years, but reached the high point of 104 millions in 1920. In 1911 the net over expenses was 20 millions, but in 1920, with all the added volume and added property in use it was but 15 millions

The figures show an almost constant net income from operation. It was 3 8 mills per transportation unit in 1911, and last year was 3 5 mills

A startling showing is that of taxes. The railroads paid $2,169,000 in 1911; last year they paid $4,857,000, or 211 per cent of what was paid in 1913 The figures are from reports of the carriers as checked by the commission.

Governor Bryan has sent a message to the around-the-world fliers extending a cordial welcome to the state, complimenting them upon the success of their trip and expressing the hope that they would visit the capital city, or at least circle over the city on their way from Omaha to St. Joseph.

The governor when asked if he desired to fly with the visitors said he was like the gentleman who asked for squirrel whisky and who refused "Old Crow" when it was recommended to him as just as good

"Aye don't vant to fly, aye youst vant to yump around a little," the aforesaid gentleman is quoted as having said.

EARLY, HARD WINTER

YELLOWSTONE PARK, Wyo., Sept. 17.—It's going to be an early winter and a hard one, says Joe Douglas, old timer and weather sharp. Joe ought to know the signs, and he says they all point to it. Joe is a ranger at the Yellowstone Lake station, and his keen eyes have been observing things in this part of the world—particularly the ways of nature and nature's children, the birds and animals—for many years. "The blackbirds are flocking together earlier than usual; the deer are already coming down from the high places; the squirrels are unusually active; ducks are flying in formation, like they were getting ready to go south; the coyotes are howling nights, and everything points to an early winter and a long, cold one," said Joe.

STEAL TANK WHILE FAMILY IS IN CAR

Tourists Sleeping in Auto Tourist Camp Miss Gas Tank in Morning—Considered Locating Here.

Having slept all night in their car at the tourist camp, Twenty-fourth and Randolph, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ellenwood and their son, George, tourists, awakened Wednesday morning and started to drive down town to look the city over in view of locating here. Stepping around to the back of the car to see how much gas he had, Mr. Ellenwood received a shock that nearly upset him. The gas tank had been stolen, its supporting bolts neatly clipped with bolt clippers.

Mrs. Ellenwood and George visited Police Chief Johnstone Wednesday forenoon and told him of the affair, suggesting that the city buy them a new gas tank. The chief failed to be convinced by their logic. He was sure, he said, that none of the city officials took the tank.

The Ellenwood's had been visiting in western Nebraska and arrived in Lincoln Tuesday night. There home is at Omaha, altho they had considered moving to Lincoln as they liked it better here. In spite of their unusual reception, they may settle here, Mrs. Ellenwood stated.

GOV. SMALL IS SWAMPED

Letters and Clippings From All Over U. S. in Behalf of Youth.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 17—Len Small's office was literally swamped today by letters, telegrams and newspaper clippings from all over the country, asking him to save Bernard Grant from the gallows

The communications came from practically every state in the Union and were so numerous that it became necessary to reply to them by form letter rather than by individual answer to each letter as usually is the case.

Very few of the protests are from the state of Illinois. Most of them come from the most distant points of the country—New York, Maine, California and Texas.

They are not the letters of cranks, but rather the communications of those who resent the life sentence of Leopold and Loeb and who see a miscarriage of justice in the hanging of the "back of the yards" boy.

The governor's office was surprised at the tenor of the letters. There were no brusque demands that Grant be spared the rope but rather a plea that Gov. Len Small go fully into the circumstances surrounding the crime before permitting the execution.

The following letter is being sent by Secretary George Sutton in reply to all the communications:

"The governor is in receipt of your letter relative to Bernard Grant who is under sentence of death by hanging in the county of Cook in this state.

"Your interest in this case is thoroly appreciated by the governor and he thanks you for giving him the benefit of your views. You may be assured this case will have the governor's careful and serious attention."

It is a foregone conclusion that unless the supreme court passes upon Grant's plea for a re-hearing before October 17—the hanging date—the governor will grant him a reprieve. Such a reprieve would be continued at least until the court has an opportunity to fully consider its original decision which sustained the death sentence of the lower court.

CHILD LABOR AMENDMENT

Proposed Change in Federal Constitution Misrepresented, Says State Welfare Bureau.

The child welfare bureau of Nebraska, with Mrs. Clara C. Clayton at the head, has prepared a statement in answer to requests for information in regard to the provisions of the proposed child labor amendment to the constitution of the United States. She finds that farmers are being urged to oppose the ratification of the amendment on the ground that it will prohibit the labor of persons under eighteen years of age. This is not true says Mrs. Clayton She says

"In June, 1924, congress finally passed the child labor amendment which had received the consideration of two sessions of congress

"Congress had previously enacted two child labor laws both of which were declared unconstitutional. The present proposed amendment reads as follows:

Section 1. The congress shall have power to limit, regulate and prohibit the labor of persons under eighteen years of age.

Section 2. The powers of the several states is unimpaired by this article except that the operation of state laws shall be suspended to the extent necessary to give effect to legislation enacted by congress.

"Remember it is not a statute. It only gives congress the right to pass regulatory measures. It does not interfere in anyway with the work of children in the home, either on the farm, or in the city.

"It will do only what some states have found it necesary to do for themselves, regulate or prohibit the employment of children in occupations that may be classed as hazardous, morally or physically. It will not take away any power of the state to give greater protection if they so desire.

"Child labor legislation enacted to date has concerned employment of children in manufacturing establishments, mines, mills and factories. It is extremely doubtful if any regulation of beet field activities would be contemplated for years to come at least.

"Certainly it would not interfere in any way with work done by children under the direction of parents, unless that work prevented school attendance. Neither would it require an additional corps of workers to enforce the measures passed by congress. There is already a department of labor thru whose divisions the law could function. Co-operation of the national officers would tend to increase the responsibility of the state, rather than to weaken or destroy it.

The most ardent advocates of the child labor amendment believe in children being taught to work. But its most radical enemies would not favor the employment of children for wages under conditions that endanger health, education and morals.

JOCKEY TALKS BACK.

DEAUVILLE, Sept. 17.—George Garner, American jockey, was too sharp with his tongue and not sharp enough on his horse to suit M. Mantacheff, owner of Bou Jeloud, in a race on the Deauville track. M. Mantacheff reproached the jockey for not winning a race, and said he did not ride according to instructions. "The next time you can ride him yourself," answered Garner. The owner protested this conduct to the track commission, and the jockey was fined 300 francs.

SAVE FEW FROM MINE

TWELVE MEN RESCUED AFTER EXPLOSION IN PIT.

Remaining Thirty-five in Sublet Mine No. 5, at Kemmerer, Wyo., Are Believed to Have Perished.

KEMMERER, Wyo., Sept. 17.—The twelve men who dug themselves out of a side entry following the explosion which wrecked Sublet mine No. 5 of the Kemmerer Coal company, are believed the only survivors of the forty-seven who were in the mine, company headquarters said today.

Eleven bodies had been taken to the morgue in Kemmemmer at 10 a. m, twelve others had been located in the main tunnel and entries, and twelve others had not yet been located in the mine.

All other bodies will probably be removed before the end of the day, officials said.

Belief prevails here that the explosion was in one of the side slopes where a small crew was "shooting." It will be only a few days company officials believe, until the mine can be clared out and work resumed

KEMMERER, Wyo, Sept. 17—Twenty bodies have been taken from Sublet No. 5 of Kemmerer Coal company, wrecked by an explosion yesterday, twelve miners have been rescued alive and about twenty three remain within the workings, mine officials reported this morning.

Rescue parties are working frantically to get at the remaining men who were entombed, believing that they may find several alive.

Constant caving of the shattered walls at the mine entrance keeps rescue parties in peril of their lives, and while some workmen are penetrating the debris, others are building barricades to stop the caving.

A downpour of rain that continued during the night, added to the horror at the mouth of the shaft where groups of weeping women and children huddled together and waiting for some word from the depths of the mine. As the blackened and mangled bodies, some of them burned almost beyond recognition, were brought to the surface, frantic relatives crowded around them in efforts to identify the victims.

Government mine rescue cars and crews were sent here from Trinidad, Col. Accompanying them were nurses and physicians hastily recruited from surrounding towns.

KEMMERER, Wyo., Sept. 17.—Twelve men were rescued from Sublet mine No 5, at an early hour this morning after being miraculously saved from death in the explosion which wrecked the mine at noon yesterday, by a cave-in of the walls which cut them off from the gas filled parts of the mine.

Estimates of the Kemmerer Coal company, owners of the property, place the number of men entombed by the blast at forty-seven. Their estimates had previously placed the number as high as eighty-one.

It is believed the remaining thirty-five perished in the explosion. Bodies of three, one headless, were located a short distance from the main mine entrance. Twelve men are known to have been on their way to the surface of the mine for the noon hour at the time of the explosion. It is believed they were thrown to the bottom and killed.

W. L. DOUGLAS IS DEAD

Former Massachusetts Governor and Shoe Company Head Succumbs to Illness.

BOSTON, Sept. 17.—William Louis Douglas, former governor of Massachusetts and owner of the W. L. Douglas Shoe company died in his eightieth year at a hospital here early today.

Death came after a long illness during the latter stages of which he submitted to two operations.

Douglas, perhaps one of America's leading examples of self-made men, was born in Plymouth, Mass., August 22, 1845 Forced to aid in the support of the family, he entered the shoe trade, pegging shoes with his uncle at seven. For eight years he plodded on, working often far into the night to earn money for his mother

From 1871 to 1876 he served as superintendent in the shoe factory of Porter and Southworth. He borrowed $875 and entered business for himself. In 1884 he erected a three story factory in Brockton, where his daily output grew so steadily that records of the company show regular additions until the present plant at Montello, Mass., is probably the largest shoe factory under one roof for the manufacturer of men's shoes in the country.

In 1886, when a member of the state senate, he introduced a bill to provide for the settlement of differences between employers and their employes, which resulted in the formation of the state board of councilmen and arbitration, probably one of the nation's best known bureaus for the amicable settlement of labor disputes

Douglas' political activities began in 1883 when he was elected to the state legislator. In 1886 he was elected state senator, and in 1890 mayor of Brockton. He was a delegate to the Democratic national conventions in 1884, 1892 and 1896, a delegate-at-large to the national convention in 1904, and in the same year was elected governor of Massachusetts.

WAY TO EXTRACT ENERGY.

DENVER, Sept. 17.—Invented, and awaiting only perfection, according to F. R. Woodward, is a method of extracting the inexhaustible electrical energy of the earth and distributing it among all civilized nations. "When my method of extracting electricity from the mineral veins of the earth is perfected," Woodward said, "all the wheels of industry, all the light and heat required to provide the luxuries required by a billion persons, will be furnished by storage batteries perpetually charged from beneath the earth's surface." Altho an angle Woodward has not studied in his twenty-five years of experimentation with harnessing the earth's untold electrical energy, he said he believed transmission of the power would be carried out by wireless.

CURTAIN UP ON PROBES

SENATORIAL INQUIRIES TO START WITH REVENUE.

Milder Snesations Expected This Fall, as Committees Resume Work Investigating Departments.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—The curtain today went up on the late 1924 season of senatorial inquiries with the reconvening of the senate committee to investigate the bureau of internal revenue. The carnival of investigations brought to an end with the adjournment of congress in June, is about to be resumed, with the prospect, however, that it will be much milder this season.

Twelve committees are squaring away for action and many of them will get under way before congress reconvenes.

The most important of these is the internal revenue bureau committee which starts its operations today. This committee, which was called into being when Secretary of the Treasury Mellon asked congress for $105,000,000 to make tax refunds will conduct a double barreled probe of tax questions and prohibition enforcement

HARRISON HITS BACK

SAYS LAFOLLETTE OPPONENTS TRIED TO DEFEAT NORRIS.

Thinks They Have Their Nerve to Call Themselves Progressives and to Oppose LaFollette.

Referring to the publication of a series of interviews by men declaring themselves to be "Progressives" and announcing their opposition to LaFollette, Frank A Harrison of the LaFollette committee said·

"I recognize some of these self-styled progressives as the usual sort of cash-and-carry politicians They will be so recognized by the voters generally They are the same fellows who tried so hard to defeat Norris in the April primary

"I do not believe the voters of Nebraska are concerned with the claims of that sort of men They certainly have their nerve when they compare their 'progressiveness' with that of Robert M La-follette"

YOUR PROBLEMS

By Mary Gordon

Dear Mary Gordon: I am a married girl of nineteen and I have a baby six months old. My husband is very mean toward me and often times strikes me as he would a dog Now Mary I just can't stand it any longer so I've tried for a week or more to get a job as a housekeeper for some one but everyone objects to my baby If I can't get a job some where, where I can take my baby I will probably have to stay on in this "hell on earth" home of mine till my baby grows up.

If any of your readers know of a place I can get work where I can take my baby I would certainly appreciate their writing to you about it.—Dog Days

A I am sure you can find someone who desires a housekeeper who will not object to your baby Send me your name and address, will you, in case there are inquiries for you?

In the meantime, go to see Mrs Franc Hawley, at the county courthouse She is a probation officer and may be able to help you settle your home difficulties, without the necessity for your leaving You can trust her

Dear Mary Gordon I am a girl in my teens and have had to work all my life. My parents don't seem to care for me as they always give my other sisters the best of things I have sisters both younger and older than I. I have been given the opportunity to go live with a cousin of mine. My parents seem to want me to go real bad and my cousin has been wanting me to come for years She is going to go east some time soon and has been asking me constantly to go with her I would love to go but do not know whether I should leave my parents and home to go live with a cousin She is very good to me and is old enough to be able to take care of me alright and yet has ideas that a young girl should have—Nobody's Darling.

A If your parents want you to go and there are other children at home, why hesitate longer? Go with her, by all means

Mirna: If you have repented, your fiance knows your story, and you feel worthy to be a wife and mother, marry him

Pug Nose: Write him a short, little note, saying, "I thank you for the gift which you sent me by mother I am sorry to have delayed my note so long. I hope you are enjoying school or work or whatever he is doing) Sincerely."

98 Out of Every 100 Women Benefited

An Absolutely Reliable Statement Important to Every Woman

Remarkable Results Shown by a Nation Wide Canvass of Women Purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. ——100,000 Women Answer——

For some time a circular has been enclosed with each bottle of our medicine bearing this question: "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?"

Replies, to date, have been received from over 100,000 women answering that question.

98 per cent of which say YES. That means that 98 out of every 100 women who take the medicine for the ailments for which it is recommended are benefited by it.

This is a most remarkable record of efficiency. We doubt if any other medicine in the world equals it.

Think of it—only two women out of 100 received no benefit—98 successes out of a possible 100.

Did you ever hear of anything like it? We must admit that we, ourselves, are astonished.

Of course we know that our medicine does benefit the large majority of women who take it. But that only two out of 100 received no benefit is most astonishing.

It only goes to prove, however, that a medicine specialized for certain definite ailments—not a cure all—one that is made by the most scientific process; not from drugs, but from a combination of nature's roots and herbs, can and does do more good than hastily prepared prescriptions.

You see, we have been making, improving and refining this medicine for over 50 years until it is so perfect and so well adapted to women's needs that it actually has the virtue to benefit 98 out of every 100 women who take it.

It's reliability and recognized efficiency has gained for it a sale in almost every country in the world—leading all others.

Such evidence should induce every woman suffering from any ailment peculiar to her sex to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and see if she can't be one of the 98

CORN CROP MATURING

TWENTY DAYS WITHOUT A FROST WILL SUFFICE.

Conditions a Bit Spotted But Crop Maturing Rapidly Everywhere Altho Some of It Still Very Green.

J. J. Cox, division freight agent of the Burlington at Lincoln attaches the following summary of his mid-month crop report for the Lincoln traffic division.

"Weather conditions since last report, with exception of a few days the first week of the period, have been very unfavorable for the maturing of corn, account too cool, with cold nights, and in a few sections too much rain, which is keeping the corn green, and this is particularly true of the Sioux City line, hence we have split Omaha division territory in compiling this report. Following agents on Omaha division report as follows:

"Plattsmouth: Corn on the uplands needs about fifteen days favorable weather, and corn on bottom lands about three weeks favorable weather.

"Wahoo: About 35 per cent corn past danger of frost. Balance will be out of danger in two or three weeks, with seasonable weather.

"Fremont: Corn still very green, none of it out of danger of frost, will require warm, dry weather balance of this month to mature.

"Lyons: 20 per cent still needing ten days good weather; 60 per cent fifteen or twenty days.

"Walthill. Corn very late. Estimated frost will get 50 per cent of corn.

"The corn on Sioux City line north of Fremont will require about thirty days warm, dry weather to put it in the clear.

"The Columbus line, on Lincoln division, is also an exception.

"Ulysses: Corn very spotted. Some fields have corn that is dented and getting hard, while corn in some fields still in milk. From two to three weeks warm sunshine to get 80 per cent of the corn into the safety zone, and 20 per cent will not be able to make it, unless no frost until the middle of October.

"Columbus: Personal inspection of twenty fields shows no corn out of danger. With favorable weather, 50 per cent will be safe October 1, 80 per cent October 15.

"Reports indicate 50 per cent to 75 per cent of the early corn (which is estimated at 75 per cent of the whole) will require ten days to two weeks of seasonable weather to properly mature, and late corn about three weeks, except the Sioux City line, and points referred to on Columbus line.

"It will be noted the territory, Lincoln to Nebraska City and Nebraska City to Lincoln via Tecumseh (some of our best corn producing territory) is pretty hard hit, the average condition of corn being only 67 per cent account extreme heat and dry weather last week in August. It is thought condition of the early corn will be light and chaffy, account having dried out too rapidly."

Here Comes the Army!

HARVARD, Neb., Sept. 17.—Virtually an army of duck hunters greeted the opening of the hunting season here this morning. Hunters arose early in order to get first chance at the thousands of ducks visiting small ponds and lagoons in this vicinity, and several of them report the "limit" because of the tameness of the birds. Many of the larger bodies of water have been leased by sportsmen from nearby towns.

DAWES FACES "BOB" IN OWN LAIR

Milwaukee auditorium, famous in political history as the place where Theodore Roosevelt spoke after he was shot in 1912, was crowded to capacity the night of September 11 to hear Gen. Charles G. Dawes, the G. O. P. candidate for vice president, attack Bob LaFollette, the progressive presidential candidate, in his home state. Dawes minced no words in his forceful address against "LaFolletteism."

CAN YOU SOLVE---

The "Two Pounds of Butter" Mystery

(One of the World's Greatest Detectives Did)

Upon taking the two hairs from the cap supposedly worn by the man who had committed the Hagemann murder, Dr. Emile Pfaff, the famous Austrian criminologist, placed these under a microscope and found that the hairs were gray but that the central canal which runs the length of each human hair was dark. Accordingly, he deduced that they were the hairs of a dark man, just beginning to turn gray.

The hairs were short and blunt. "Therefore," said Dr. Pfaff, "the man you want has recently paid a visit to the barber."

Again, the roots of the hairs were beginning to waste, a sure sign that they had fallen from a part of the head which was just beginning to turn bald, while traces of perspiration revealed under the microscope indicated stoutness.

The announcement immediately sent out thruout Vienna was that "a man of middle age, inclined to stoutness, with black hair intermingled with gray, recently cut; commencing to grow bald" was wanted in connection with the Hagemann murder and, in the roundup which followed, the guilty man was arrested, confessed and was afterwards sentenced to life imprisonment—a tribute to modern science and the value of deduction when property applied.

The "Two Pounds of Butter" Mystery.

When M. Canler, chief of the Paris detective force, took charge of the mystery connected with the robbery of one of the leading jewelry stores along the Rue de la Paix, he at once asked for a list of the missing articles. This included a number of valuable rings, watches and unset stones, the thieves evidently having been men of discernment, so far as values were concerned.

But the most careful examination failed to reveal any finger prints upon the safe, the windows or even the polished floor. The men who had committed the robbery had evidently worn gloves and they left no trace behind them, save a candle surrounded by a piece of paper so charred that it was little more than a mass of ashes.

It was upon the candle and the paper that Canler centered his attention, picking up the burned pieces with pincers and laying them carefully to one side where he fitted them into place with the precision of one who is working on a jigsaw puzzle. It was evident from the unburned portions of the paper that the burglars had used the first piece that had come to hand, a very common kind of writing paper. But the chief of detectives was not interested in the texture of the material nearly as much as he was in something else. His trained eyes had told him that there had been a few words written in pencil on the paper, words which had been only partially obliterated by the action of the flame from the candle.

Little by little and with the utmost patience, he fitted the scraps together and gradually there grew into sight the complete phrase "Two pounds of butter."

As Canler chuckled over his discovery, one of his assistants looked over his shoulder and exclaimed: "That can mean nothing! What has 'Two pounds of butter' to do with the robbery of a jewelry store? Surely you can't think——"

"I think that those four words provide us with the clue that will finally solve this mystery," replied the chief of detectives. Then, when he had placed a piece of glass over the ashes and had carefully traced the handwriting on a thin sheet of paper, Canler gathered the original fragments together and tossed them into the air.

"I have all the evidence I shall need," he declared, "and I shall return when I have followed this clue to—wherever it may lead me."

What had M. Canler deduced from the words on the burned paper? Why did he consider them so important to the solution of the robbery? How did he use them to locate the criminals?

The answers to these questions will appear tomorrow.

RUMORS ARE SAID FALSE

COOLIDGE DENIES ANY CRITICISM OF WILBUR.

Recalled Secretary of Navy to Washington Only to Discuss Naval Matters. White House Indicates.

WASHINGTON, Sept 17.—The white house today officially denied that any reason other than a desire for the president to discuss naval matters with Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, caused Wilbur's sudden re-call from the Pacific coast Monday. A formal statement issued at the executive mansion, said:

"It was officially denied at the white house that the president had heard of any criticism of any speeches made on the coast by Secretary Wilbur, or any comment concerning them other than that they have been very helpful.

"The president has the highest regard for the character of the services Secretary Wilbur has rendered as head of the navy and sent for the secretary solely to consult him on matters of purely domestic concern relating to the navy, telegraphing him that important naval matters made it necessary to see him at once."

GOVERNOR OPENS HIS COAL OFFICE

Illinois Central District Fuel for $3 at the Mine and Colorado Lignite at the Same Price.

The "State Coal Company" as operated by Governor Bryan, is now ready to furnish coal at cost to municipal coal yards or to committees or communities who demand protection, as the governor terms it, from an unreasonable margin charged by dealers. He has reopened the business of supplying coal a little earlier than usual because of an earlier demand. He said orders for fifty cars had been received by him since the middle of last week.

Orders for six to ten cars a day are now coming in, he explained. Fremont, Wymore, Norfolk and Elk Creek are among the towns from whence orders have come.

The governor has notice of an advance of 25 cents a ton on Colorado lignite to be effective October 1. If he can buy at the right price this advance will not apply to his customers. He said there are indications of the formation of a combine by Colorado coal men. Lignite is a little higher there while in Illinois, central district, the price is a little lower than it was last winter and last spring. Illinois coal was bought last year by him at from $3.15 to $3.40 at the mines. This year he offers to supply this coal for $3 at the mine. In eastern Nebraska this means about $6.50 a ton free on board the cars. The Colorado lignite he offers for the same price as charged for the Illinois coal, $3 a ton f. o. b. at the mine. The conditions imposed by the governor is that the purchasers of coal from him shall not add more than $1 a ton if the coal is sold from the car and not more than $2 if delivered to the consumer.

SANTORO SALERNO KILLED

Another Feud in "Whisky Hollow," Omaha, Results in Death of Italian.

OMAHA, Sept. 17.—Feud of "whisy hollow," in which the Salerno family is the principal figure, claimed another victim early this morning when Santoro Salerno, thirty-five, paid with his life for his killing of Mike Bell, six months ago.

Salerno was shot from ambush and fatally wounded as he was leaving the home of Bell's widow, Mrs. Lucy Bell at 2:10 this morning. He died in a hospital at 7:45 a. m.

Before he died, he swore before a priest and detectives that his assailant was Rocco Bolloni, blood brother of Bell, who changed his name to Bolloni recently.

"I was leaving the house," gasped the wounded man. "As I stepped from the top step Rocco Bolloni whipped out a pistol. He fired three times, but the first shot got me.

"Rocco had on a woman's hat and a woman's short fur coat. But the street light was shining, and I saw his face."

Salerno then lapsed into a coma from which he never reappeared.

Detectives found Bolloni in bed at his home. A woman's hat and short fur coat was on a chair nearby. He had not been asleep, the officers said.

Calm and cool he met the officers.

"I thought you were friends, what do you want?" he demanded.

"You," the officers answered.

Rocco shrugged his shoulders.

"I don't know what for," he said as he dressed. He refused to talk when taken to the station.

Mrs. Bell is being held as a state witness. She and other members of the Italian colony declared Bolloni had often threatened Salerno's life since the killing of Mike Bell.

Bell's body, riddled with bullets, was found in the same house where Salerno was killed today. Salerno pealed self-defense, claiming Bell had attacked him with a knife, and was acquitted. Mrs. Bell was shot thru the leg by a stray bullet when Salerno killed her husband.

Salerno, who is married and the father of six children, was said to have been infatuated with the handsome widow of the man he killed.

Half o dozen members of the Salerno family, whose head is known as the "King of Little Italy" have met violent deaths at the hands of assassins in the past several years. They have themselves killed about the same number in that time.

Bolloni's wife was recently sentenced to serve a year and a day in Leavenworth penitentiary for bootlegging. Bolloni has been living alone at his house since his wife's departure for the prison.

COUNTY ATTORNEY DENIES CHARGES

W. D. Funk of Knox Says Complaint of Anti-Saloon League Is Vicious and Contemptible.

A personal investigation of the charges against County Attorney W. D. Knox county is being made by Governor Bryan. He is investigating statements made in a complaint filed by F. A. High, superintendent of the anti-saloon league of Nebraska. He said Wednesday if he doubt arises in regard to legal questions involved he will confer with the attorney general.

While at Norfolk Governor Bryan met Mr Funk and asked for information. Mr. Funk is quoted as having said the proceedings against him are a vicious and contemptible slam at him and that the poeple of Knox county and the bar of the county are behind him and are satisfied with his enforcement of the prohibitory law. He said he had handled 150 cases in a year and a half, more than all his predecessors had handled, that he is enforcing the law and is in sympathy with the law.

In regard to one of the charges alleging he did not file a complaint against a man for having a still after the man had been convicted of selling liquor Mr Funk explained that there was a copper boiler on the premises, but no coil, and while there were two barrels that indicated they had held mash, there was no still on the place and he could not convict on such evidence.

FARMER IS FOUND DEAD

John Tonyon, Bachelro, Dies in Kitchen of His Home.

COLUMBUS, Neb., Sept 17.—John Tonyon, forty-three, bachelor farmer, was found dead in the kitchen of his home near Humphrey Monday. Dr A C Cauly, summoned from Humphrey gave it as his opinion that death was due to acute alcoholism.

Will Ludwig, a neighbor discovered the body of Mr Tonyon just inside the open kitchen door. The man had evidently been stricken upon tenering the house. Joe Boesch, friend and almost constant companion of the dead man was found in an upstairs room asleep and claimed to know nothing of the death. Upon being questioned, Boesch told the county attorney that he had been with Mr Tonyon previous to the death and that the latter had been drinking. No suspicion of foul play is expressed. The death of Mr Tonyon is the second attributed to moonshine liquor in Platte county within a month.

A clear Complexion

comes with Rich Red Blood cells

DOES YOUR MIRROR reveal a soft, clear, ruddy skin, free from imperfections, that is such a joy to every woman? Or are you embarrassed with blemishes, pimples, little eruptions, acne, blackheads and other unsightly and disfiguring handicaps?

Your skin is in reality your passport, and if your mirror reveals a blemished, unsightly complexion it is time to begin at once to correct this annoying condition. When the blood becomes infected with humors or impurities, the circulation cannot supply rich nutrition to the skin, but instead it deposits the acrid impurities with which it is contaminated into the sensitive fibres and tissues. This causes irritation or inflammation which splits or breaks the outer cuticle, while the tissues beneath ulcerate, become inflamed, break out into pimples, and cause other unsightly irritations.

Just as long as the blood remains pure, the skin will be free from eruptions; but when the blood becomes affected with humors, its nourishing and healthful properties are lost, and its humor-laden condition causes inflammation of the delicate tissues and fibres of the pores and glands. You have but to realize the importance of pure, rich blood in preserving the health, and that the source of all skin disorders is in the blood. Remove the cause, which is not in the skin itself, and therefore cannot be reached by a treatment that is strictly local, but is deep down in the blood supply.

Because S.S.S. does build red-blood-cells, it clears the system and makes those so-called skin disorders impossible to exist. S.S.S. contains only pure vegetable medicinal ingredients. It is also a remarkable builder of firm flesh which is also important to beauty. It will fill out your hollow cheeks, put the "ruby" of health in your cheeks and the sparkle in your eyes. Since 1826 S.S.S. has been beautifying complexions and giving women physical charm. That is why S.S.S. is accepted as the greatest of all blood cleansers and body builders. S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores. The larger size bottle is more economical. Start taking S.S.S. today. Its marvelous results will amaze you!

DOTTY HAS A PLEASANT SURPRISE.

"WELL, of all things!" Dotty exclaimed as she saw the great big Spider dragging a stick in her fore-claws. "What in the world do you think you're doing, Mrs. Spider?"

"Working to beat the band," laughed Mrs. Spider, laying down her stick and rubbing her two front feet together to knock off the dirt. "Nothing like building a new home to settle one's nerves. You see I just lost my old house."

"In the storm, I suppose," said Dotty kindly. "It does seem a shame how a storm will tear down the spider-webs. I've noticed them in the garden. Which one is yours, anyway?"

"Oh, dear me, I'm not a garden spider," chuckled Mrs. Spider merrily, as if the notion had struck her as funny. "I live out here in this woods."

"Well, I should think it would be nice living in the woods," agreed Dotty. "You have your web swung between some bushes or grasses perhaps."

"Who, me?" exclaimed Mrs. Spider. "I'm not a web spinning spider, I'm a relative of those spiders. I'm Mrs. Turret Spider, if you please."

"Well, if you don't spin a web, what do you do for a house?" asked Dotty, glancing at the stick Mrs. Turret Spider once more picked up in her fore-claws. "Where is your house?"

"Come along and see for yourself," laughed Mrs. Turret Spider merrily, and holding her stick very tightly, she trotted off toward the edge of the woods.

A wee pile of sticks just about the same length as the one Mrs. Turret Spider carried in her claws was piled in among the grasses and when

"Come and See for Yourself."

Dotty took a good look at them she found they were all placed like her Granddaddy had made her little log house, one stick on top of the other, all fastened together with strong cobwebs.

Dotty peeked down into the hole as Mrs. Turret Spider placed her last stick on the top and fastened it together with moss and cobwebs.

"Now, then, I must go down inside and bring up dirt to plaster the inner walls," and suiting the action to the words Mrs. Turret Spider hustled into her house and when she came up again she had a great ball of dirt in her arms. This she plastered against the side of her house and flattened and smoothed it out with her little body until the inner wall was just as smooth as glass.

"Now that my house is done, I'm going to lay some eggs and raise a family," she mused as she sat down to rest. "Then you'll have to come and see me. It only takes two months for the eggs to hatch and it can't roll around any too soon to suit me," and waving her fore-feet at Dotty she disappeared into her house.

Dotty waited and waited for Mrs. Turret Spider to come out again but it began to grow dark and she knew her mama would be wondering where she was, so Dotty marked the spot with a great big limb and ran home.

MY HUSBAND'S LOVE

What Katherine Tried to Make Madge Promise

KATHERINE'S arm tightened about me as I made my bitter little retort concerning Dicky's sharing with others the royal tenderness upon which she had commented so enviously when revealing to me for my healing the jealously-guarded secret of her own marital unhappiness.

"I am not so sure about that," she said calmly.

I could not see her face, for in my headlong rush into the room after my stormy interview with Dicky over Mollie Fawcett, I had not stopped to switch on the light, and Katherine had held me close in her arms ever since, but her voice was so filled with conviction that I felt the rigid bands around my heart give ever so slightly.

"There is some explanation, I am sure for Dicky's latest interest," she went on, "although I admit appearances are all against him, and no matter what the final elucidation may be, he has no right to shut you away from his confidence. But even if the explanation be a temporary infatuation for Mollie Fawcett's beauty, you know Dicky well enough to realize that there never is any real disloyalty to you in his Peter Pan strayings. And most of the time he does love you so gorgeously! You don't know what it is to be starved—for love— And then, Oh! Madge!"—the words were freighted with unutterable bitterness—"you have your child!"

"I Thought it Might Help."

Swiftly my memory went back to the night when Katherine had shared my watch above Junior, ill with croup. Believing me asleep, I had seen her bend over my baby boy's crib yearningly, and heard her voice so heavy with anguish that I could not forget it, in the woeful wail, "Oh! God! my empty arms."

"But, surely, Katherine," I stammered, "Jack cares for you. Why! he was wild about you!"

"Oh, yes, he cares. I suppose," she said listlessly, "but, in this queer state of mind of his, he has taken almost a morbid aversion to children. He says that he never wants one of his own, and even if he did, I would not bring a child into the world to be cowed by his black, gloomy moods. But, oh, Madge, I never should have told you this! I feel as if I were guilty of treason against my poor boy, who I am sure is only suffering for what the war did to him. But I thought it might help you somehow."

"It has," I said promptly, feeling that there was at least a soupcon of truth in the glib retort, although my rancor toward Dicky was not materially lessened because the things he had said in his anger were too fresh in my memory. "But, Katherine, dearest!" there was nothing but sincerity in my voice now, for her sorrow seemed so much more grievous than my own—"is there no help? Perhaps hospital treatment—an operation——"

"I Wanted To——"

"You know Jack," Katherine returned. "And if you stop a minute you will realize how useless any suggestion would be that did not spring from his own convictions."

Yes, I did know. I remembered that beneath my brother-cousin's sterling virtues and kindliness lay a will of iron. I also remembered, glad that Katherine could not see the flush of embarrassment on my face, that often in the hectic days since my marriage, I had contrasted that firmness with Dicky's volatile instability, and had allowed my imagination to linger over what might have happened had Jack come back from South America before I met Dicky, instead of returning after my marriage.

I never had dreamed that he thought of me in other than a big brotherly way, and when, upon his return, before I had had time to tell him of my marriage, he told me of his love for me, I had grieved for him sincerely. I had rejoiced as truly later, when, in war-torn France, where he had gone immediately, Jack had met winsome Katherine Sonnot and realized that his affection for me was nothing beside the overwhelming love which swept her into his life for always. But my rejoicing had not always kept me from that romantic conjecturing over what "might have been."

I knew now, and the knowledge made me draw an unconscious sigh of relief. Afraid that Katherine might interpret it correctly, I sprang from the bed, and groped my way toward the light, keeping my back toward her as I turned it on, and forcing my voice to briskness.

"Let us hope there's some way out for each of us," I said, beginning to remove my gown. "In the meantime, the sooner we get to sleep the better. But—please—remember that I know what it has cost you to tell me—and you have helped me so much."

"I wanted—to," she said faintly, "and if there's anything I can do in the days to come, you'll call on me, won't you?"

"On whom else, dear heart?" I answered, with subconscious evasion, and they were the last words either of us spoke that night.

But neither of us slept for a long time, and I am sure that when my eyes finally closed, Katherine's were still keeping weary vigil.

Cupid peeks over his shoulder and softly chuckles as he turns his eyes to the name of the one whom he has selected for Mr. Bachelor. And Mr. Bachelor reviews all the lovely girls of his acquaintance—blondes, brunettes, Titians—and wonders which will be his choice. But wily Cupid knows, and guides him unerringly to the girl who will fill his heart and turn him from fickle loneliness to constant happiness.

A Physical Examination First Big Aid in Insanity

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator from New York,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR. COPELAND.

IN an article on insanity which I recently read some startling figures were presented. Here is an uncomfortable statement:

"More than two persons out of every thousand living in the United States to-day are confined in institutions for mental diseases."

This means that out of every little hamlet of five hundred inhabitants one has been taken to an asylum. It is a dreadful thing to contemplate.

In New York State in 1910, 5,994 new cases were admitted to the State institutions. By 1922 this number had increased to 7,408 new admissions. In a full thirty years the number of known insane persons in the United States had doubled.

Let us not become too gloomy, however, as we study these statistics. While it is probable there is a slight increase in certain ailments, for instance, in the prevalence of cancer, we must not overlook the fact that the medical profession is increasingly skillful in diagnosis and richer in the possession of instruments of precision for the determination of disease. For these reasons the doctors diagnose cancer now in many instances where it would have been overlooked years ago. The cancer was there, but it was not recognized. More people died of "natural causes" without our knowing the true reasons for their deaths.

Likewise, in the study of mental conditions, our experts discover and determine abnormal mental states which were considered merely as forms of eccentricity in older days.

But it must be admitted, of course, that the strenuous living of these stirring times is conducive to great stress and strain upon the brain and nervous system. Unless there are stability and solidity in the nerve cells and structures, the functions of the brain may be perverted and insanity may result.

Personally, I am firmly of the belief that a sound body has more to do with sound mentality than has anything else. Excluding the so-called "blood diseases," and those mental shocks which are recognized as factors in the development of insanity, we find that the great bulk of mental perversions may be classified as toxic.

By this I mean that poisons developed within the body have so affected the brain cells that normal function is impossible.

Just as alcohol will poison the brain and turn a good man into a bad one, so will certain bodily poisons upset the normal operations of the human mind. Pus absorption, whether from pussy gums, abscessed teeth, abscessed tonsils, abscessed organs and particularly a pussy infected intestinal canal—pus absorption from any source must be considered a possible causal factor if it coincides with the presence of mental disturbance.

Every insane or suddenly erratic person should be carefully examined to see what bodily defect or ailment may be the possible cause of the distressing symptoms.

CLARA MORRIS WRITES ABOUT A Diamond Mystery

Copyright, 1924, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Clara Morris

WHERE today is the great de Sancy diamond? That jewel whose supreme beauty is literally forced to play second violin to its own thrillingly dramatic—nay its melodramatic—story as clearly traced from about 1450 to 1890!

Yesterday was dark and dreary. The wind rose. This stormswept day was the perfect background for a glorious browse!

On a few stained, dishonored old leaves, I found a brief treatise on the great Nicholas de Harlay, Sieur de Sancy, by whose name a famous diamond has been known for close on four hundred years. It seems odd, too, for though it was held a hundred dramatic years by the house of Harlay de Sancy, what of that?

It had an equal time with many kings—Charles the Bold, Emanuel the Fortunate, Louis XIV, Louis XV, who wore it at his coronation, when he was in truth, not in mockery, "bien aime," the well-loved.

Always dramatic, perhaps it was the climactic horror of the de Sancy period that welded the diamond and the de Sancy name indissolubly, for while bloody murder is a component part of the history of every superlatively splendid diamond, the de Sancy in the way of horror can "put it over" far greater diamonds than itself.

Rises from Disaster

Of its ups and down we know nothing till that evil Summer day in 1476 when Charles the Bold of Burgundy, all dolled up with his flaming and famous diamond, met bitter defeat at Granson.

There the great stone was picked up from the battle-field by a dull Swiss soldier, who joyfully sold it to a clergyman for one gulden. That canny person, after sixteen years, permitted himself to accept 5,000 ducats for it from a merchant of Lucerne. It's a wonder shame did not turn the stone red!

Again it reached its level in the hands of "Emanuel, the Fortunate" of Portugal—one hundred years in the house of Aviz. Then, the kingdom being annexed to Spain, the great jewel was sold to the Sieur de Sancy in 1580.

In that period things moved. Bold things—creepy things! Among them this:

Short of money, Henry I fought desperately for his throne. Loyal de Sancy offered to pledge the diamond to the Jews at Metz.

Murder and Sudden Death

"No earthly messenger could be so trusted!" warned the king. But the Sieur de Sancy swore he could trust his life, his honor, his very soul to the servant who, heavily armed, departed secretly for Metz.

But there had been a leak. Bandits attacked him. Fighting furiously he saw no hope for himself, and but a forlorn hope for the diamond. In his fury he swallowed it.

The bandits murdered him. It is not pleasant to think of their ignorant efforts to recover the gem.

Guessing what might possibly have happened, de Sancy, with men at arms and a chirurgien, took up the trail, found the poor hacked body—the chirurgien not being ignorant recovered the diamond.

. . . B-r-r-r-! No wonder it's called de Sancy!

Next it passed to James II of England, who carried it with him in his flight to France in 1688, where he sold it to the Sun King.

After the Terror, it bobbed up serenely. Napoleon bought it; but in 1835 it was sold to Prince Paul Dennidoff for $400,000.

Next it appeared in great shape in Bombay, but being a bit restless it hops back to England in 1867.

"Now," closes the brief treatise, "the diamond belongs to the . . . Czar!"

A chill breath of air creeps through my hair. The Czar is—the Czar does not own things now; but you can't murder a diamond!

Where is the great de Sancy jewel this 1924 . . . Where?

THE HOME KITCHEN

By JEANNETTE YOUNG NORTON

The Authority on Home Cooking

When Fall Winds Whistle in the Garden.

WHEN Fall comes how greedily we gather the very last bit of every crop, for it gives us a comfortable feeling of plenty and protection against the severe season ahead of us. One housekeeper pulled her string beans, vines and all, and put them in the cellar just before a light frost, and picked beans indoors until the yield was used up and the vines wilted. The green tomatoes are always left in the hope that they will ripen, not that we always need them, but we like to see them complete their growth. Of course, the green tomatoes can be sliced in salted water and then fried, or made into a late pickle—or even sweet pickled if we have not enough of such things on hand.

If there has been an early frost the vegetables must be used right away, before they spoil, so suppose we begin by preparing the pumpkin that we had tucked under a bunch of cornstalks to protect. It may be nipped, but that won't hurt it if we use it right away, and an old fashioned pie is sure to be appreciated.

Real Pumpkin Pie.

Cut the pumpkin into quarters, scrape out seeds and soft centre pulp, then pare and cut into small chunks. Put into a kettle with about a pint of water, just to keep it from burning, and cook gently until it is soft and tender. Then mash it until smooth and free from lumps. Sweeten to taste, add two teaspoonfuls of salt, a half cupful of butter and a cupful and a half of molasses, a teaspoonful of cloves, the same of cinnamon and the same of ginger, then set aside to cool. When ready to make the pie, allow two to three cupfuls of pumpkin to each pie and three eggs. Then add a little more sugar and ginger and molasses or milk if the pumpkin seems too thick. Make a good, short crust and line the deep pie plates, finishing the edge with floured tines if the fork. Bake well in a moderate oven.

Corn Fritters.

The last ears of corn are apt to be a bit tough, but if carefully prepared will make quite acceptable fritters. With a sharp knife slice the kernels from the ears, being careful not to cut deep enough to get the points of the husks. Then scrape down the cobs with the back of the knife to extract the milk. Put the corn into a saucepan with a cupful of milk and cook gently until the corn is tender, then add a generous lump of butter, a quarter cupful of sugar, pepper and salt, then set aside. Make a batter of one cupful of flour, one and a half teaspoonfuls of baking powder, two level teaspoonfuls of cornstarch, three tablespoonfuls of sugar, a beaten egg yolk, a tablespoonful of melted butter, the beaten white of the egg and a quarter of a cupful of milk. Beat until all is blended, then strain the corn and fold it in. Fry by large spoonfuls in hot fat. Drain and serve as a vegetable dish.

Cream Chiffon and Bronze Lace Make This Lovely Youthful Evening Frock.

ONE of the newest evening combinations sponsored by Paris is that of cream and bronze.

The youthful dancing frock above carries out this vogue to perfection in its use of cream colored chiffon and bronze lace. The lace outlines the interesting V neck, reappears at the low waistline, and is seen the third time as edging that curves up the back to resemble a bustle.

The same frock would be lovely in white chiffon with silver lace.

Three-Minute Journeys

WHERE MEN CARRY BURDENS WHERE HORSES CANNOT GO.

CHINA, mysterious land of the Orient, famous for its picturesque pagodas and magnificently decorated temples is, notwithstanding its beautiful surroundings, a country where the most unbearable living conditions exist.

The rich people of the Empire live on the fat of the land, while the poorer people have to be content with whatever they earn. As wages in China are very low—amounting to only a few cents a day to the most skilled worker—it can easily be seen that hardship, toil and suffering is the daily lot of the less fortunate inhabitants of this strange land.

No one in China works harder than the porters. These poor men, human driftwood in the swarming masses of humanity that make up China's vast population, are treated like beasts of burden. Their daily life is one continuous round of labor. From sunrise to sunset they plod along, carrying exhausting loads up steep mountain trails, through shallow streams, and across rough trails, too rough for animals or wheeled vehicles.

They live on from day to day neglected and uncared for. No one sympathizes with them. No one is responsible for them, and if, at any time the load on a porter's back becomes too heavy and he drops exhausted to the ground, there is always another porter willing—indeed, eager—to take his place.

It isn't unusual to see a thirty-year-old Chinese porter with iron hair and bent back, caused by a constant life of suffering and toil, shambling along with a burden that seems to kindly imagination as big as the magnificently decorated temple he is sullenly plodding by.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By ANNIE LAURIE

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

Please tell me if it is proper for a girl to set the time and day when she invites a gentleman friend to call on her.

If the couple have arranged to go out for the evening, is it proper for them to wait a while before leaving the house?

BLUE BELL.

BLUE BELL: 1.—Yes, unless the man cannot come on the day that she sets, then he may suggest another.

2.—If the young man arrives early they may wait awhile before leaving, otherwise it is perfectly proper to leave as soon as the young man calls for you.

Change Your Beauty Aids with the Season

By LUCREZIA BORI

The Famous Spanish Prima Donna

DO you realize that your beauty care must differ somewhat with the different seasons?

Many people take the same beauty precautions year in and year out, and I may say that others allow themselves to suffer the same beauty neglect, regardless of the changing seasons of the year.

With the Summer season safely over, many of us find less need for such things as tan and freckle removers. We find to our joy that these slight beauty blemishes from which we suffer in Summer begin to take themselves away automatically. The cooler weather and the more plentiful rainfall all have their own beauty offices to fill. While we may rebel against the rainy Fall days which call for rubbers and raincoat and an old hat and umbrella, we should in reality be thankful for these very things. Besides filling their duties toward nature and mother earth, they have their very real place in our personal scheme of things.

For instance, the rainy day which calls for rubbers if you are to keep the soles of your feet dry brings a very real beauty tonic to your skin. The same damp weather which would give you wet feet and a cold if you did not take the proper precautions, also brings clear transparency and lovely freshness to your complexion.

So when a rainy day comes, welcome it as a helpful agent toward complexion beauty, but take this word of warning:

The Fall season and the increasing coolness of the days also bring the need of steam heat within doors, and this means increased dryness of complexions.

To offset this, you will doubtless need skin food more than you did in the warm Summer months, when the fresh air and the sun bath did untold good to your hair and skin, even if they did leave a few freckles or a bit of tan in their wake.

When you go to bed at night remember to pat a good skin food into your face. This will counteract the dry effects of the steam heat which you encounter indoors.

You will also have to take more beauty precautions to keep your hands in condition. Give them skin food at night, and apply a good lotion after washing them during the day, so they will not become chapped and rough.

You will find by meeting emergencies in this way that a little commonsense goes a long way in preserving your beauty season in and season out.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

THURSDAY, SEPT. 18.

Excellent prospects are presaged from this day's planetary configurations, but these may be nullified by the Martian incitement to fly into disastrous situation through impulse or wrath. Impetuosity and contention should be suppressed. Those in the employment of others are under splendid rule for advancement or recognition and all are encouraged to seek favors or assistance from those in authority. There is a sign read as a menace of treachery or betrayal.

Those whose birthday it is have an excellent forecast for the year, provided they do not jeopardize their good fortune by quarrels and impulsive acts. They should also be on guard against treachery or subtle attack. A child born on this day will be inclined to be rash and headstrong, but will succeed, and will advance rapidly in the employment of others.

A thousand delegates are expected to be here October 9 to 12 to attend the Topeka convention of the women's foreign missionary society to be held at Trinity M. E. church. INVITE ROUND THE WORLD FLIERS HERE

Governor Bryan, Acting Mayor Dayton and J. Cass Cornell, of Chamber of Commerce Extend Invitation

America's around-the-world fliers have been invited to "look in" or at least look down, at the city of Lincoln as they pass by air on their way from Omaha to St. Joseph, Mo., Wednesday afternoon.

Commissioner George Dayton, acting mayor of the city, in conjunction with J. Cass Cornell, president of the chamber of commerce, telephoned Tuesday afternoon to General Halstead Dorey, acting commandant of Fort Crook, extending thru the general an invitation to the fliers when they arrive at Fort Crook Wednesday. Governor Bryan also extended an invitation to the airmen.

The army globe-circling squadron was scheduled to leave Chicago Tuesday morning, but inclement weather delayed their program twenty-four hours. They plan now to leave Chicago at 9 a. m. Wednesday. This schedule will bring them to Omaha in time to take off from the Fort Crook flying field there Wednesday afternoon. If they accept the invitation of the city of Lincoln, residents of this city will see them on their way from Fort Crook to St. Joseph, Mo.

Acting Mayor Dayton telephoned Tuesday afternoon to General Dorey, who agreed to wire Mr. Dayton the acceptance or rejection of Lincoln's invitation immediately after the airmen decide whether or not their schedule will permit a visit to the capital city of Nebraska. Mr. Dayton will make public the news of the visit as soon as possible if the pilots decide to fly to this city.

If time permits, Mr. Dayton invited the fliers to stop in Lincoln, but in case such a visit is not practicable, the pilots are invited to circle over the city a few times before winging south.

QUINTON CASE IS ARGUED

CONVICTION IS SAID TO BE PURELY TECHNICAL.

Sheriff's Attorneys Ask Supreme Court to Hold Trial Court to Letter of Law.

Th ecases of Sheriff C. D. Quinton of Cass county and Constable William Grebe were argued and submitted to the supreme court Tuesday afternoon. Judge Rose and Judge Day of the court did not participate in the case. Argument for the state was presented by Assistant Attorney General Lloyd Dort. Sheriff Quinton was represented by A. L. Tidd of Plattsmouth, D. W. Livingston and Paul Jessen of Nebraska City.

Sheriff Quinton was acquitted in the lower court of protecting bootleggers but was found guilty of failing to report fees quarterly and failing to pay all fees over to the county treasurer. The case is a misdemeanor case, but the law authorizes the distrist judge to remove the defendant from the office of sheriff. This was ordered by Judge Troup of Omaha who had been called in to try the case.

It was alleged the law of 1907 takes the sheriff out of the list of officers required to keep a fee book or to pay over funds to the county in quarterly payments. It was admitted by the attorneys that Quinton did not file his reports quarterly but that the court erred in instructing the jury in regard to the meaning of wilfully and corruptly. Quinton did not do this wilfully or corruptly, his lawyers contended. His long record of law-enforcement and lack of office help were mentioned by the attorneys.

In regard to the court's instruction that a sheriff is required by law to keep a fee book Mr. Jessen said Quinton was convicted of a technical violation of the law and it was no more than proper that the trial court should be held strictly to the letter of the law, and the law does not require a sheriff to keep a fee book. He asked this court to pass on that point.

Part of the argument made in the Quinton case applies to the Grebe case. Grebe assaulted Elmer Gaines when he was watching at the Plattsmouth bridge for booze cars. He denies hitting Gaines with his fist, but says he pushed him. Gaines said he was hit and that Grebe did not make himself known as an officer until after the assault. Nothing was found in the car. The incident occurred after midnight. The testimony showed that Gaines does not use liquor. He is a carpenter employed in the Burlington railroad shops.

MAY BUILD NEW SHELTER

Humane Sociey Considering Plans for $20,000 Building.

Plans for a $20,000 shelter and hospital are being considered by the humane society, according to C. E. McClain, superintendent. The new shelter would be erected on the three acres of land of the Sawyer-Snell tract lying south of Hatch street and east of the intersection of Hatch street and Park boulevard, which was donated to the society. The new shelter would take the place of the one now in use under the O street viaduct. Further announcements may be made at a meeting of the executive board this week.

CROWDS SEE STYLE SHOW

NOVELTIES CHARACTERIZE FALL OPENING DISPLAYS.

Merchants in Every Line Unite in Outdoing Previous Shows—Windows Mark Advance in Taste.

The fall classic of the Lincoln merchants' calendar drew thousands to O street early Tuesday evening—so many that westbound traffic was blocked within five minutes of the unveiling of the store windows, which all day had guarded the displays that were to forecast the winter's merchandise. But it was a good natured crowd, grown accustomed to the annual jam on the occasion of fall opening display night, and officers at the busiest corners kept traffic going with a minimum of inconvenience.

This, the fourth annual display, showed an advance in taste on the part of window decorators in general, in the direction of increased simplicity of background and consequent emphasis on the articles exhibited. Lincoln stores have long had the reputation of having achieved a metropolitan character out of the ordinary for a city of this size, and this reputation is enhanced by the present display.

Those who thought all the novelties had been employed on previous occasions opened their eyes in front of at least two windows—one where two girls calmly submitted to the marcel process, the other containing three oriental maidens building the wall of China with mah jongg tiles. One store stationed a jazz orchestra in its doorway, while an event not scheduled in advance was the parade by a group of evangelists with flags, trumpet and drum.

Purple Hats Shown.

Three decorators must have been surprised when they viewed each other's windows containing displays of purple hats. The innovator who employed blue chapeaux exclusively attained quite as decorative an effect.

Clothing stores made the most of the opportunity afforded them by the fashions of the season. The Prince of Wales himself might have found acceptable hats and suits and ties, while as for the sweaters and vests—well, the wise young chap will take care to keep his locked away from sister. The same goes for the plaid wool scarfs that are quite the newest thing for brother and sister, and mother too. One of the men's exclusive shops employed living models, and who was it that surged toward the windows with the aid of vigorous elbows and knees, to see "what the well dressed man will wear?" The men, and nobody else but! Girls who wanted to get a line on shirts for shieks and caps for cake eaters had little chance Tuesday evening.

Automobile dealers marshalled the finest of the new cars on their display floors, with their balloon tires, new shades of upholstery, and all the details that make for distinctiveness. Several opened their doors to interested spectators and more than one eager wife was heard telling her husband just what kind of car they should have.

Camping Equipment.

Near one of the motor establishments a window filled with modern camping equipment drew an interested crowd, greatly admiring the camp grill and oven, and the cups that hung on the edge of the water bucket.

A market window filled with marvelous pastry was flanked by one whose piece de resistance was a turkey, ingeniously contrived from a squash, a feather duster, a sweet potato and two cranberries. The same motif was observed in another market window with a real bear (in a cage) for a centerpiece, a stuffed owl in the corner, and a haunch of venison in the foreground. A pig ready for roasting, with an apple in his mouth, was the principal figure in still another while the opposite window resembled a combined apple and banana orchard. Many hardware stores celebrated the opening of the duck season in their window displays. One snowy scene with a cozy bungalow in the center, reminded the spectators that the coal season is also opening this month.

Yellow chrysanthemums flaunting in a florist's window added another autumn touch to the scene, tho they shared honors with a bridal bouquet of white and silver, and with a modest cluster of pinkish saffron rosebuds labeled "Mrs. Calvin Coolidge rose." Another florist dressed a window in the style of another day, putting old fashioned garden flowers into old fashioned vases, with an old black lace scarf forming a background for a style book of 1869. A third filled one window with scarlet coxcomb and pheasants of rainbow plumage, while a stately peacock in the opposite window stood amid bowers of pink roses and violets. In another a little gardener watered a bed of lantana with a never-failing sprinkler.

Flowers of Candy.

Flowers made of candy were features of a confectioner's window, and in two other windows real girls dipped caramels, packed bon bons, and fashioned green and white candies. Money in all denominations, from a penny to a gold double eagle, drew much attention in a cash grocery window. This was all United States money, while in two bank windows appeared not only American money of every period and denomination, but German marks and Egyptian coins of unfathomed antiquity.

"Stop and shop" read the crossing sign beside which paused a locomotive assembled from garbage cans, toasters, sauce pans a bird cage and a thermos bottle cap, hauling a tender much resembling a laundry hamper on waste basket wheels. The same idea was worked out by another dealer, whose train of paint and varnish cans was labeled "The satest line."

Furniture windows showed many styles and adaptations of old ones, besides period furniture, new ideas in lamps, and novel ways of employing colored drapes. One window drew attention by the way in which it simulated a vista rather than one room, while another was furnished entirely with ancient articles loaned by the state historical society.

Radio outfits of every kind appeared in many windows, one of them being shown in operation. Reproducing pianos also entertained and interested the crowds, while people gazed in awe at harmless looking saxophones, bedizened with colored enamel and jewels.

Some people may not have realized how decorative door knobs may be until they saw a windowful, in bronze and glass of many designs. Hat boxes and fitted bags made striking displays, and as for shoes—the variety of cut and ornament more than makes up for the narrower range of color to which the autumn styles have reverted. Kimonos, negligees, embroidered linens and lacy handkerchiefs kept feminine spectators in front of one window a long time. Imported glass and carved wood had the same effect elsewhere.

Crowds watched a telegraph operator working a sending machine that looked like a typewriter and emitted coils of perforated paper, which were fed into a receiving machine that pounded out the message on another typewriter. Complete telephone equipment, with a line strung on little poles, made another attractive display. One bird store added four green parrots to its customary happy family of canaries.

Show Living Models.

Living models showing the season's mode in five store windows held large crowds for nearly two hours. One was enlivened by jazz music. Moderately priced wearing apparel made up the bulk of the showings here. Trim, well-styled garments were worn by the paraders. Men and women mannequins were used. The block between Tenth and Eleventh was packed with a crowd that overflowed to the middle of the street and lined up to the curb on the opposite side in order to view mannequins who were wearing latest styles in women's wear. New ensemble suits, richly befurred coats and fluffy party dresses in the newest shades and materials were worn. Much black was seen but usually set off with gay colorings. The new browns, greens and a little red were seen in coats and dresses.

The block between Twelfth and Thirteenth streets was an almost solid mass of people so closely were they packed from store windows to the street car tracks. On the opposite side of the street, where a good view of the windows could be had, the street was packed to the curb. Mannequins in the balcony windows wore many luxurious coats and smart afternoon and evening dresses. The popularity of the tunic was apparent and the new tendency to fullness in dresses. Shades of brown, brick dust and shutter green showed the color trend in outdoor apparel. Many handsome garments that were brought to Lincoln for this showing were among those worn. Between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets, men's styles held sway. Models wearing the latest in men's wear promenaded in the street floor windows. Overcoats in the new lavender shade and hats in the latest blue demonstrated the leading colors of the season. The smart sack coat and loose trousers were shown. In a window on North Twelfth street a masked model demonstrated different makes of corsets. A small crowd gathered here, a block and a half from O street. In a nearby window an operator showed the correct way of marcelling the bob on a real head of hair. In another window an operator demonstrated a facial.

Jewels Attractive.

Next to the living models, the jewels probably held the crowds at windows. Policemen were on guard before windows where many thousand dollars worth of precious stones were on display. In one jewelry window, two saucy flapper mannequins stood guard over the jewels. These were not living models but were intended to show off some of the flapper tendencies of the day. Shingle bobbed, with cigarets between their teeth and dressed in boys' suits they posed in saucy defiance to the fellows whose trappings they were wearing. In another window, several diamonds nestled in rose petals on a huge lump of coal. "Two kinds of carbon," a poster announced.

A platinum bracelet set with diamonds and sapphires worth $3,500 was a feature of the display. Three diamonds that were valued at $10,000 were the center of attraction in another jewelry window. A diamond bracelet worth $3,500 was shown with the stones.

In a nearby display a quaint figure stepping out of the portals of a home, or coming on the stage, was surrounded by diamond rings and platinum bracelets worth from $1,500 to $3,000. A picture of the Gruen facotry was the background of display of Gruen watches in another window. The new cartouche (square) watch was an interesting item in another display.

Rings and watches were posed against a blue velvet background in an interesting display. A complete set of silver valued at $2,500 was displayed with a luncheon set in another jewelry window. Diamond rings worth $6,000 were arranged with antique pieces in a very interesting display.

Backgrounds of Windows.

Backgrounds this year were not as elaborate as those that have been seen in previous openings. The merchants gave their attention chiefly to featuring their merchandise. Autumn leaves, sprays of fruits and flowers and scrolls and set pieces were used with the plain backgrounds of polished wood. Spotlights thrown on the displays gave beautiful color effects. The use of lamps was a prominent feature in these settings.

A [illegible] wall lamp of orange [illegible] completed a lovely Spanish setting in one window. Another marble lamp in a corner window added a very interesting touch to a very attractive setting. The model of an ancient sailing boat was another unusual feature in this display. Floor lamps with lovely colored another window setting. Brown hats in the new soft brown shades were displayed with a floor lamp that had a lovely shade in brown shades accented the color note in tones. Floor lamps in Grecian design were used in another display.

Elaborate backgrounds were arranged in a few windows. In one chancel cloth was used on the walls with color notes in gold and black. In another setting, striped damask was used in covering the and gold scroll work with parrots perched on the top of the piece was used in setting off another window. Black and silver was the dominating for another display and sprays of autumn leaves and fruits were used in others.

Beaded evening gowns were seen in many displays and the popular ensemble costume often repeated illustrated the popularity of this new style. Drapes of materials were used in many windows. Lace in many bright colors made up one entire display. One window showed the popularity of black. All figures were dressed in black costumes. The new postilion hat was seen in this window. The ox-blood shade was seen in a handsome coat in a corner window. Fur wraps valued at $1,750 to $2,250 were the feature of another window. An electrical doll in a crib in a nearby window won over the furs in catching the crowds. "It's a baby," was about the first thing everyone said whocaught a glimpse of the kicking feet and then tried to squeeze thru the crowd for a closer look.

Fluffy fox chokers in all the newest shades made up an attractive display in one good sized window. Imported beaded dresses were the feature of one window. Net almost solidly beaded made a gorgeous evening dress. An imported suedine coat dominated one window and a dinner gown in tile blue broche was the attraction in another. Two lovely dresses occupied two whole windows. One was a green georgette studded with rhinestones and the other was white with appligued trimming in bright colors. A handsome ostrich boa held its own in a window with lovely afternoon and evening dresses. A tan broche dress illustrating the circular tunic was seen in a window of pretty dresses. It was trimmed in ostrich.

The house was decorated in Russell roses, the official flower of the sorority. The guests and members were seated at four tables, each decorated appropriate to one of the seasons of the year. The spring table was gay with spring flowers and the summer table had a centerpiece of a Maypole and butterflies. At the fall table fall fruits formed an attractive centerpiece and miniature evergreen trees and snow decorated the winter table. The nut cups for each group were appropriate to that particular season. Tuesday evening the members of the sorority were hostesses to their rushees at a formal dinner at the Woodburn. Places were arranged for fifty, and Russell roses, the sorority flower, were used in carrying out a pink and green decorative scheme on the dinner tables. Music was furnished during the dinner and there were several musical numbers later in the evening as part of the entertainment.

Coach Dawson Padlocks Stadium

Al Bloodgood Returns

Two Practices Daily For Huskers

A squad augmented by fifteen or more newcomers toiled behind locked gates on the practice field at the stadium Tuesday evening which marked the first secret practice of season for the Cornhuskers. Until classes open Thursday, Coach Dawson has ordered two workouts daily, one at 10 in the morning and the other at 3 in the afternoon. Wednesday morning found them hard at it again.

Because he is working almost wholly with new material, Coach Dawson is dealing in the fundamentals. He is starting at the beginning with the entire squad which now numbers between sixty and seventy candidates.

Split Up Into Teams.

To finish off each afternoon session, the squad has been cut into teams. The "A" team Tuesday evening consisted of Rhodes and Robertson on the wings; Captain Weir and Molzen, tackles; Hubka and Ogden guards with Hutchison at center.

Al Bloodgood, the last of the letter men to return, showed Tuesday and was placed at quarterback. Locke and A. Mandery were at the halfback positions with Doug Myers at fullback.

No attempt has yet been made to teach formations. It is unnecessary to point out the keen competition extant. For the first time in two years there are backfield positions which right now are wide open. The list of backs are realizing there is more of a chance to make good this year than when Chick Hartley, Dave Noble, the Dewitz brothers, Ced Hartman, Lewellen, et al., carried the burden of the backfield so brilliantly that it was next to impossible to get in for a chance.

Three Out For Quarterback.

As an example of competition, take the quarterback assignment. Al Bloodgood is the only letter man out for this job. He was given a chance several times last season, but it is up to him to show considerably ability in order to get that berth away from Bill Bronson, stocky quarterback and Chester Gately.

Bronson has been taking the punishment with the freshmen just to get a crack at the 'varsity. He was held back on account of a shortage of the required number of "hours," but he kept right on plugging with the yearlings. And it might be added that Bronson and Avard Mandery made the first stringers look somewhat bad on several occasions in scrimmage practice last season. Bill, it can be taken for granted, is going to leave no stone unturned now that his chance is here.

Molzen Holds Big Promise.

Cecil Molzen is another player who has persevered two years with the freshmen in order to get his chance with the 'varsity. Molzen was short the required number of hours. He showed every indication of being a bear cat during his service with the frosh.

Dr. Oliver Everett, team physician, who hasn't missed a football game in which Nebraska has participated for over a decade, was on the sidelines Tuesday evening. He was getting acquainted with the newcomers and polishing up on the changes in rules. He is a dyed-in-the-whisker Husker fan.

All Want The Dope.

"How do they look? What are the chances?"

Those are two questions which are being asked around the Nebraska campus with regularity. The questioners are all seeking information regarding the Cornhuskers. One veteran follower answered these questions as well as they and their thousands of kindred queries ever will be answered until the season is over. He said:

"They're out there and I would venture the guess that they will play all the games on the schedule."

Those contesting for vice president's job are Charles Bruce, Gail McCandless and Steven Sterns.

For secretary Frank Corrick, Guy Cook, both football men and Lyra Tait are the nominees.

The ones who desire to take charge of the classes funds are Viola Oberlies, Clara Olson and Julia Rider.

World's Series Will Not Start Before October 2

SENATORS FURNISH THRILL OF SEASON

Regardless of Outcome Bucky Harris' Crew Puts Real Interest in Race—Spurt of Robins Unexpected.

BY HENRY L. FARRELL.

Whatever happens to the Washington Senators in the American league pennant race, they must be given credit for furnishing a great public thrill and for showing a lot of experts that form is a fickle foundation for predictions.

If the Senators should pull thru to the pennant they will be one of the most popular champions that ever went into a world's series. Up and down both major league circuits well wishes for young Buck Harris and his hustling club have been heard on all sides.

The reason for the popularity of the team is not hard to find. He is Walter Johnson, the grand old pitcher and the most popular player in baseball. Johnson has one of the finest records a pitcher ever made and he has a personality that has always been a credit to the game. Johnson never has been in a world series, and if is the fond wish of all baseball that he has at least one crack at big glory before he has to retire.

Paid Them Scant Heed.

Not one expert in the business of picking finish positions in the spring gave the Senators a fumble. They were looked upon as first division timber that was more likely to disappoint than to surprise form in the hands of a boy manager, Buck Harris.

Detroit and Cleveland were expected to give the Yankees what little trouble they would encounter in another jaunt pennantward. When the Yankee pitching staff cracked and the team slumped, Detroit lived up to promise, but it was the Senators who came thru when Cleveland faltered and fell out of the contending position.

The Senators, even after their sensational rise, were expected to collapse. Miller Huggins, manager of the Yankees, and Ty Cobb, pilot of the Tigers, figured that Buck Harris had the team playing way over its head and that in a hot pennant race the club naturally would have to seek its own level.

The Senators were helped by fine pitching, by timely hitting and by the hustle htat Harris inspired in them. Of all the teams that played in the Yankee stadium, the Senators looked and acted more like champions. They are a game ball club and a fighting ball club, and if they get thru in first place there can be no element of luck blamed for the feat.

Ty Cobb had a lot of had luck in the last lap of the race.

At the most critical time, when the Yanks were in the grip of a panic, Cobb lost Lu Blue, one of the best first basemen in the league, and he couldn't replace him. The effect on the team was bad, as it seemed to break the players' spirit and they went almost to pieces in the grip of the slump.

Pitchers Crack; Yanks Slip.

The Yankees ,of course, were the big disappointment of the season, but to close observers of the game, their collapse was no surprise. Last spring a wise Cleveland philosopher said that the Yanks would last as long as their pitching staff. Other critics felt the same way, and Miller Huggins couldn't have helped knowing it. When the pitchers, upon whom the club depended so vitally, cracked, the team cracked with it. If Babe Ruth hadn't hit like someone inspired ,the Yankees might be in the second division now. If they ever do get out of the first three, or down in the second division, they will be years getting out of it, because no steps have been taken by the management to fill places that aged veterans necessarily must vacate before long.

The failure of the Indians to deliver was attributed to the same cause that brought about the decline of the Yankees. Tris Speaker didn't get the pitching from Coveleskie and Uhle that he expected, and he was depending on them.

Most of the critics expected the Giants to have a fight in the National league, but the fight didn't come from the quarters expected. John McGraw insisted from the time he took his champions to their Florida training camp last spring that the Pittsburg Pirates was the club he had to beat. Most of the critics figured that the Cincinnati Reds were the most powerful team on paper in the league, and even after the club was handicapped by the death of its popular manager, Pat Moran, it was figurde that the players were old enough and experienced enough with the theories of Moran baseball to go thru almost on momentum under the direction of a new manager, Jack Hendricks, who was so thoroly in sympathy with the departed manager.

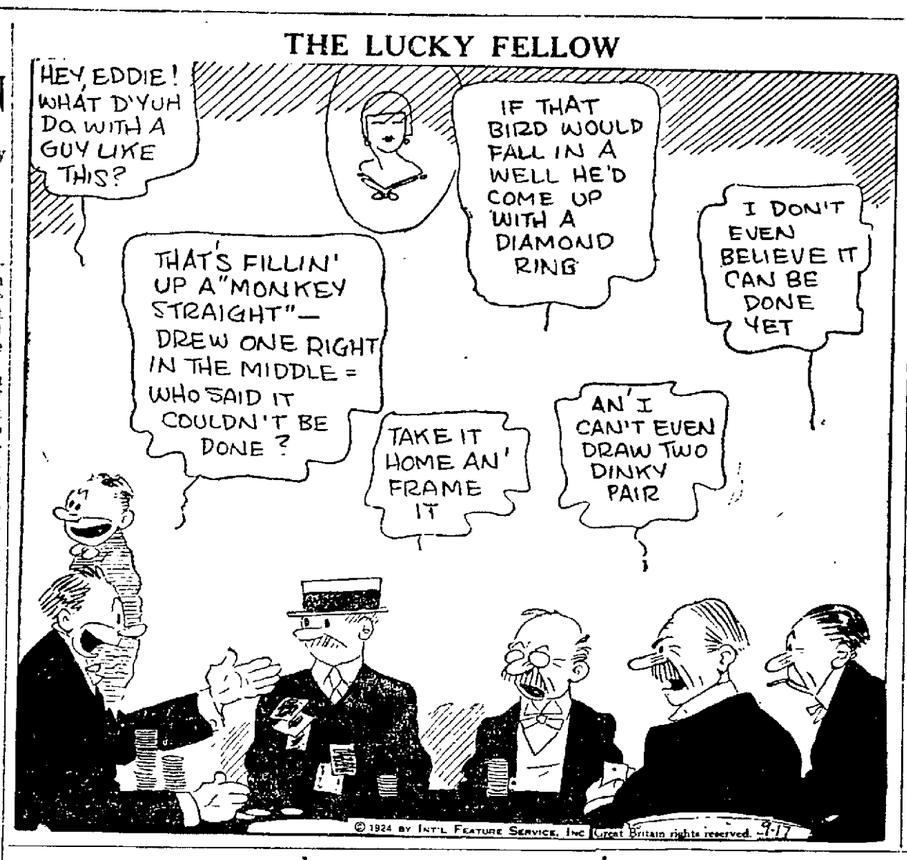

There is little doubt that the Reds would have done better in the race and might have won the pennant if they didn't have one succession of injuries and bad breaks which kept them from having their full strength on the field for more than half the season.

Robins' Spurt Real Shock.

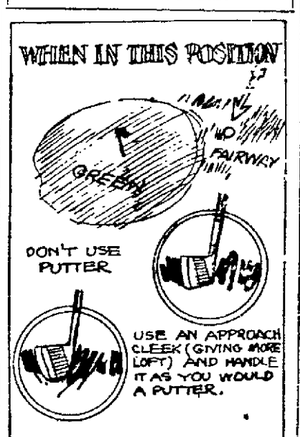

It was a great surprise when the Giants turned into August with a lead of nine games. They were running along so smoothly that the race was considered "in" by the experts. Then another surprise came when the champions hit the rocks and when the Pirates stepped out with one of the most sensational winning spurts of the season.

These surprises were nothing compared to the shock that came when the Brooklyn Robins started to tear thru the league. Helped by some of the finest pitching in both leagues from the great Dazzy Vance and Burly Grimes, the Robins went into a dangerous pennant contender and complicated the whole situation.

There is less than a month to go, and in that time most anything can happen. The pennant races may not be decided until the last games on the schedules That, of course, helps business.

GOLF LESSONS.

When the ball lies in the short grass of the fairway, but only a foot or two off the green, is it safe to use a putter under ordinary circumstances? Or should some other club be used?

Answered by

CLARENCE HACKNEY.

Winner of the Canadian open championship in 1923-24. Also winner of the Philadelphia open championship in 1923-24 and the professional championship in 1924-23. Runner-up in many sectional tournaments, including the north and south championship four times in seven years.

The only club to use in this position is an approach cleek. This is by far the safer club and should be used in the same manner as a putter. A great many players make the mistake, on shots like this, of using mashies and other clubs which have too much loft. A shot of this sort needs overspin to make it "hug the green," and a lofted club imparts backspin and has the opposite effect. A backspin shot will bite into the green, slow up suddenly, and jump about in an uncertain manner, making the distance to the cup hard to gauge. An overspin shot which rolls ahead in a straight line is a much safer stroke, and an approach cleek is the proper club to produce this effect.

Powell Wins Flag In Play-Off Game

ENDICOTT, Neb., Sept. 16.—The Jefferson County league baseball circuit wound up its affairs this week, two delayed games being played to complete the books. One was a protested game between Powell and Reynolds, played at Gladstone on neutral territory, and resulting in a score of 14 to 3 in favor of Powell, by virtue of which Powell wins the pennant. The other was a postponed game between Endicott and Gladstone, played at Gladstone also, and resulting in a score of 7 to 2 in favor of Endicott.

GRIDIRON QUESTIONS.

Question—Understand from various sources that coaches are figuring on ways to get around rule eliminating tee for kick-off. Some are putting groove in ground and laying the ball on that. Is there any rule that would prevent that?

Answer—No. The rule was made to prevent delays caused by building tees.

Question—Some coaches are planning to have ball held for kickoff in same manner that place-kick is held. Is this within the rules?

Answer—No. Rule provides all players must be behind the ball at the kickoff.

Question—Before a ball is put in play a man of the offensive team starts running. May he be in motion before, or when, the ball is snapped?

Answer—He may be if he is running obliquely or directly toward his own goal, and is five yards back of the scrimmage line when the ball is snapped.

FIRST MEETING OF OWNERS ON SUNDAY

Such Plans as Can Be Laid Will Be Undertaken—No Invitation to Ban Johnson—May Mean More Feud.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Such arrangements for the 1924 world's series as can be undertaken before the winning teams are known, will be made here Sunday at a meeting of the presidents of the six contending clubs and Commissioner K. M. Landis.

The National league season closes September 29 and the American league schedule ends the following day. The series hardly could be started without one day of rest for the players, so it is improbable that the classic will start before October 2.

Try To Speed It Up.

In order to avoid a gamble with treacherous October weather, the games will be played as rapidly as conditions will permit. If Detroit does not play the American league end of the series, the teams could make overnight jumps and play on successive days.

In calling the meeting of the contending club owners, Commissioner Landis again failed to include an invitation to the presidents of the two leagues, John A. Heydler and Ban B. Johnson. The critics, remembering Johnson's wrath last year are looking to another warm winter of politics and a revival of the Landis-Johnson feud.

By splitting even in a double-header with the Reds while the Brooklyn Robins were taking an awful pasting from the St. Louis Cards, the New York Giants increased their lead to a game and a half over the Robins. The Pirates broke even against the Phils but gained a half game on Brooklyn.

Senators Climb Half Game.

While the Yankees were rained out of competition in St. Louis, the Washington Senators beat the Indians and got a half game lead of three points.

The Detroit Tigers took a fine mauling from the Athletics and fell four and a half games behind the Yankees.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—The historic international chalenge trophy symbolic of the world's polo supremacy, will remain in the United States for three more years.

Under rules governing play for the trophy, Britain cannot challenge again for three years. America won the cup in 1921.

Oliver Wright of Franklin county is displeased with the fact that a jury said he had no cause of action against the Burlington railroad company, and his filed an appeal with the supreme court. He claimed damages from surface water turned on his premises, from the closing of a nearby street and from having cinders tossed into his premises and whistles sounded incessantly in his ears.

Cars from sixty Nebraska counties and four neighboring states were noted on the streets of Lincoln Tuesday night during the fall opening display. Most of them, together with the Lincoln cars, seemed to have started their tour of O street on the north side, and several times the traffic was too heavy and the line would be halted for several minutes. No accidents were reported.

The supreme court wiped five appeal cases off its docket Wednesday. Gertrude Bretzer was granted a decree of divorce from Walter Bretzer by District Judge Frost Wednesday morning, on grounds of extreme cruelty, infidelity and nonsupport. The couple were married in Lancaster county, June 23, 1920. There are no children. Mrs. Bretzer's maiden name, Gertrude Whittington, was restored. The decree was entered by default, the husband remaining absent from the trial.

Secured claims totalling $10,139 are held by the First National bank of Lingle, Wyo., Federal Land bank of Omaha; Valley View company, Lingle; and George Derr, Morrill. The petitioner farmed in Goshen county, Wyoming, for three years, in which time most of his obligations were incurred.

R. H. Keck of Polk county, democratic candidate for re-election, visited the capitol Wednesday. He desired to ask for governor and attorney general to enforce the act of the last legislature requiring dealers in poultry to keep a record of purchases. He said the law has driven out of business chicken thieves who formerly sold truck loads, but that dealers do not obey the law in making purchases on a small scale, and that some are in fact encouraging small boys to steal chickens by buying from them.

It is a consolidation of farm lines with the city plant and the farmers who bought it issued $15,500 worth of stock to themselves after a telephone lineman had gone over the property and said that it was worth money. The commission engineer had doubts about its being of that value, but the commission, because it was all done in good faith, permits the stock to be validated with the understanding that it does not accept this as the actual valuation.

Flat feet or broken arches are not compensable under the employers' liability law, according to Compensation Commisisoner Frye's ruling in the case of T. J. McGuire against the Nebraska Gas & Electric company of Norfolk. The claimant was salesman and meter reader and his work required him to do considerable walking. He was disabled for nine weeks and received medical aid. The commissioner holds that the Nebraska law covers muscular strain or physical over exertion, such as hernia, but there must be a definite, particular occurrence to which the injury can be attributed. It does not cover occupational diseases or gradually inflicted ailments. No accident was shown in this case and it is dismissed.

SITE FOR NEW PARK LAND GIVEN TO CITY

Ninety acres of land are included in the three areas bordered by marked lines in the above sketch, which maps the extent and situation of ground deeded to the city last Monday by Winona S. Sawyer, Novia Z. Snell and Flora F. Snell.

Transfer of the property was conditioned upon its use solely for park and playground purposes, the park to be established there to be known as "Sawyer and Snell Park."

Acquisition of this potential playground area by the city increases the acreage of Lincoln parks, roughly 25 per cent. Three hundred and sixty acres of land are comprised in Antelope, Lincoln Heights, F street and Van Dorn parks. With addition of the ninety acres diagramed above, the extent of Lincoln's total park space is increased to four hundred and fifty acres.

Valuation of the land deeded by the Sawyer-Snell estate for public use was estimated by commissioners to be between $35,000 and $40,000.

A tract of about three acres southeast of the boulevard is designated as the site of the new humane society building.

PEOPLE YOU KNOW.

One of the loveliest of the autumn weddings was that of Miss Dagmar Sommer, daughter of Mrs. H. D. Enslow and Mr. Enslow, to Willis C. DeVriendt, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. DeVriendt of Lincoln, which was solemnized at high noon Wednesday at the Enslow home in College View. Forty guests were present. Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Lorane Seaman of St. Joseph sang "At Dawning," accompanied on the harp by Miss Marjorie Shanafelt; and Charles Sommer, the seven-year-old brother of the bride, sang "I Love You Truly." Miss Shanafelt played the Lohengrin wedding march on the harp as the bridal party entered. During the reading of the marriage lines she played "Griere" by Hasselman, and "Believe Me, If All Those Endearing Young Charms" during the congratulations. An altar of white satin and lace, with a kneeling bench, was arranged in front of the fireplace, which was banked with ferns, and was enclosed with palms across the back and at the sides. Tall baskets of yellow and white chrysanthemums stood at either side of the altar. Baskets of yellow, lavender and white flowers tied with white satin ribbon formed an attractive setting at the foot of the stairway. The bride and her attendants came down the stairs, and at the same time the bridegroom, with his brother, Drew DeVriendt who was best man, and Rev. Charles S. Bream who performed the ceremony, entered by a side door, meeting the bride near the altar. The bride entered with Mr. Enslow, who gave her in marriage. She was gowned in cream silk lace made over georgette, and her long veil which fell into a train was fashioned in coronet style in the back, and was held in place with a pearl band. She carried a shower of bride's roses and lilies of the valley. Mrs. Enslow attended her daughter as matron of honor. She was gowned in orchid and gray georgette, and wore a fan corsage of feathers, heliotrope and pink roses. Miss Elizabeth Enslow, as maid of honor, wore a gown of yellow beaded velvet, and carried yellow and white roses. Miss Elaine Dorothy Seaman of St. Joe was bridesmaid, and she was dressed in light blue taffeta, with a bouquet of pink roses. Little Billy Morton, son of Dr. and Mrs. Perry J. Morton, completed the bridal party, as ring-bearer, carrying the ring on a white satin pillow. He was dressed in a pink satin suit. A reception and buffet luncheon followed the ceremony. Miss Frances Pehmiller served punch, and ices, cakes, nuts and candies were also served. The table was centered with the wedding cake, and flowers and lavender candles completed the table decorations. Miss Helen Aach had charge of the gift room and the guest book. Out of town guests who came for the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Sommer of Kansas City, Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Sommer, Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Seaman and daughter Elaine, and Mr. and Mrs. C. C. The bridesmaids were the Misses Dorothy Louise Thompson of Gardiner, Me., May Louise Fulton of Chicago, Margaret Mercer and Mary Stetson Cook of Pittsburgh. They appeared in frocks of peach crepe satin, with full court trains of the same material. Their flowers were peach-colored gladiolas and blue delphinium, and they wore pearl studded headbands. Fowler Dow Jones, brother of the bride, was best man. Two small flower girls completed the party, Rosabel Young, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Young, and Helen Walker, daughter of Dr. G. H. Walker, both of Bellevue. They also wore frocks of peach georgette over white, and carried Colonial nosegays with lace frills and tied with narrow blue ribbons. The ushers were Logan Jones, a brother of the bride; John Wilson, jr., Theodore Mohney, and Ernest Lucas. A reception and dinner at the Jones home followed the ceremony. DISPUTE OVER A DEPOSIT

Supreme Court to Decide If Insurance Company Transaction Affected It.

The guaranty fund commission was in supreme court Wednesday seeking to enforce its contention that the $4,800 deposit of the Old Line insurance company, now owned by another, was a loan and not a deposit in the failed South Fork bank of Chambers. The bank president was a friend of Blake Maher, an official of the insurance company, and solicited the deposit. This was done and arrangements made to send a solicitor into the territory, the bank to share in his commissions where it aided in getting a policy sold and also to discount the notes taken by the agent in payment of premiums.

The insurance company dose not take such notes, and these were negotiated by the agent himself. Some of them were not paid when the bank failed, and the guaarnty fund commission takes the position that the whole transaction takes the deposit out of the category of those guaarnteed by the state fund.

nominated at a state-wide primary, when my public record was an open book and fully understood by the voters of the state, I think I have a right to proclaim that the doctrines for which I have stood and which I have promulgated are the doctrines of the republican party, at least in Nebraska."

Partisanship An Evil.

Partisanship, the senator holds, is "the one worst evil of government." It "dwarfs the mind and the judgment of men who would otherwise be able to accomplish great good for the country and their fellow men." He intends to support the proposed Nebraska amendment for a non-partisan ballot for state officials.

Senator Norris defends the record of congress on the income tax law and regrets its failure, brought about in conference committee, to provide full publicity for income tax returns. He will press his amendment to end the "lame duck" congress. He would abolish the electoral college, now threatening the country with a presidential deadlock. He holds that the railroads could not be more deeply in politics than they are now even if government owned.

The Water Power Problem.

One of the senator's chief interests which he will discuss during the campaign is water power and the possibilities of a giant power system. He will stand as he has stood for government ownership of Muscle Shoals and against the proposed lease to Henry Ford or to anyone else. He would have this a key to a great government controlled power system.

He has always advocated and will continue to advocate settlement of international disputes by arbitration. "I intend to do everything within my power," says Senator Norris, "to advance the settlement of international disputes in courts of reason rather than on the field of battle. He suggests, however, that not every proposal labeled internatioal peace necessarily means peace.

Harry C. Swallow who protested against the progressive party committee nomination of Dan B. Butler for governor filed a supplemental protest Wednesday with Secretary of State Pool. He alleges that John M. Paul of Harvard and W. H. Green of Omaha, chairman and secretary, respectively, of the progressive party committee have no power to bind that party by nominations for the reason that they disaffiliated themselves from that party at Grand Island, September 3 when they signed an agreement to for ma new political party, namely, the LaFollette independent party. Mr. Swallow says these two men thus disqualified themselves from serving as members of the state central committee or as officers of the progressive party.

The protest is to be heard by Mr. Pool, Monday, September 22.

GLAD TO TELL OTHERS ABOUT HIS EXPERIENCE

C. A. Howard Gives Tanlac Credit For Ridding Him Of His Troubles.

"What I know about Tanlac after five years experience with this medicine is certainly worth passing on to others," states Charles A. Howard, 211 Locust St., Dubuque, Iowa.

"Before taking Tanlac my stomach was in such a bad fix that sourness, gas and heartburn simply nagged the life out of me. Even a diet of bread and milk seemed to aggravate my condition and I was pretty well discouraged. I also suffered from nervousness, dizzy spells and restless sleep and, in fact my system just seemed to be all out of gear.

"My very first bottle of Tanlac made a marked change in my appetite and general condition, so I took a few more bottles to play safe. Since that time I have taken Tanlac every spring and it suits my system perfectly. It keeps me free of indigestion and other troubles, brings sound sleep and keeps me feeling fine."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 Million bottles sold.

LATEST MARKETS

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—Grain futures broke sharply on the board of trade today. Corn led in the slump.

Despite the sharp slump in corn, wheat displayed a stubborn undertone. Heavy calling early in the session caused recessions but at the closing hour, values made up some of the losses when buying against sales in corn appeared.

Drastic liquidation in corn was caused by liberal country offerings, prospects of warmer weather and lack of buying power.

Oats fell off with other grains and heavy accumulations at terminal points. Provisions were sharply lower with grains, hogs and lack of interest.

Grain Market Opinions.

Lamson Bros. & Co.: We favor purchases on the breaks.

Stein Alstrin: Dips encounter support.

Thomson McKinnon: Prices are apt to drift pending some new development.

Jackson Brothers: In view of the news the market holds remarkably well.

Clement Curtis: The general situation is not changed.

Chicago Tribune: Wheat traders are disposed to look for a moderate recession, to be followed by increased export buying and a rally. The disposition is to buy on breaks. An export buying of late has been heavy. It would be reasonable to expect a slight letup in the demand except on good breaks. The United Kingdom has a wet harvest and similar conditions have also prevailed on the continent altho better weather conditions are now reported in France. Corn acts tired and bull news has become stale. New motives are needed to create more interest. Export business in oats has been larger than reported. Export sales wheat 500,000; Rye 300,000. Charters Monday and yesterday at the seaboard aggregated 32,00,000 bushels of which around 1,500,000 bushels were for oats.

Herald Examiner: "The export situation remains strong. Canadian grain is slow to start moving, which will center the demand in the United States for thetime being."

Price Current Grain Report.

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—Price Current says: "Crop will average about 50 per cent merchantable by October 1, if no killing frost occurs, 25 per cent suitable for feed and 25 per cent fodder. Oats being held as feeding substitute for corn, as market price too low. Surplus storage capacity on farms used to full capacity to store oats. Hog slaughtering west week ended September 13 estimated 493,000 against 529,000 previous week and 608,000 last year."—Lamson.

Iowa Corn Slow.

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—Le Count wires from Waterloo: "Corn developing slowly. Heavy frost before October would be below average and would damage earliest and ruin later corn. If it could all mature, the crop would be below average. Better land, where usually best crop is expected, has poorest outlook this year, being short, yellow and weedy, with much a total loss as the result of floods."—Lamson.

Stock Letter.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—The stock market made an excellen tresponse to buying induced by the declaration of the regular dividend by Crucible Steel directors, better trade reports and encouraging foreign political news. While part of the buying was apurently by recent sellers, fresh investment purchases were noted in a number of shares. Good judges of market conditions expect the advance to go further and favor particularly United States Steel, rails, motors and rubber stocks.—Lamson.

Wall Street Journal Review.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Bullish forces made their influence felt again in unmistakable fashion in today's session. After the period of intense dullness which followed the recent decline of several weeks in the general list, many sections of the market appeared to have generated sufficient reserve to resume the advance. The resulting movement carried prices substantially higher in numerous representative issues of both the railroad and industrial categories.

Instead of being confined to special issues as it had been the past two or three days the advance spread thruout the market embracing leaders like U. S. Steel, American Can, Baldwin and General Electric among the industrials and New York Central, Lackawanna, Norfolk & Western and Chesapeake & Ohio among the rails.

NEBRASKA THIRD IN CORN

But Two States Above in Production—Forecast Substantial Rise in Crop Total.

LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 17.—Only two states surpass Nebraska this year in corn production according to a report made Wednesday by the Division of Crop and Livestock Estimates. Condition of corn in the state remained third in hte country despite the fact that only one other state in the corn belt showed a greater deterioration during August the report said.

"Nebraska has a good chance to maintain third place in corn produtcion despite the loss of eight per cent in condition during August," the report stated. "Reduction in condition in the corn belt statse during August ranged from one per cent in Illinois to nine per cent in Minnesota. Only one state—Missouri—showed a gain in condition and this state and Kansas are the only two corn belt stated that show increased production during August.

"The Nebraska corn crop lost eight points during August but the present forecast is approximately 19,000,000 bushels above the 1918-1922 average. It must be remembered however that this year's acreage is more than 13 per cent above the 1918-1922 average and when the prospective yield is compared with the average the situation does not show up as favorable.

"The September condition of Nebraska corn—72 per cent—indicates a yield of 25.4 bushles an acre. The 1918-1922 average yield is 26.1 bushels an acre. The present indications are that the yield will fall below this average altho the production forecast is above the average for this period due to the fact that the acreage is 13 per cent greater than the average of this period."

SAYS PRACTICE UNLAWFUL

Hastings Attorney Attacks in Court Use of Decoys to Catch Suspects.

Attorney J. E. Willetts of Hastings launched an attack in supreme court Wednesday morning on the practice of the law enforcement department in using men to get others to sell them liquor. Mr. Willetts presented the appeal of Thiede and Johnson, two Hastings men, accused by the state of having supplied a man they had employed for that purpose to buy liquor from them. He said the evidence was insufficient to sustain the conviction, and cited the testimony of the defense to show that Johnson was discussing a contract with a customer and that Thiede was out of town.

The attorney took the ground that as it is equally an offense against the law to purchase liquor as it is to sell it, the officer who buys liquor is not a credible witness in a prosecution thus iniated, and that the court ought to place its disapproval upon this method of getting evidence.

REALTORS HEAR AD MAN

Improving Classified Ads to Make Them More Readable, Discussed by Visitor.

Making over the classified advertising page in order to make it easier to read and more interesting to the reader, was discussed before the Lincoln Real Estate board Wednesday at the chamber of commerce. Charles J. Winter of Iowa was the speaker and he described a system now in use by many large newspapers.

Points stressed were the importance of answering the reader's mental questions in the order in which they come to mind; saving space by adopting a unifrom style; arranging ads so they can easily be found; and advertising frequently.

Uniformity of style was upheld by the speaker because, he said, the very classifying of the advertisements insured 100 per cent attention on the part of the reader, and no amount of white space, large type, cuts or unusual arrangement could increase that percentage.

H. H. Roosa of Rochester, N. Y., formerly of Lincoln, explained his project of bringing a shoe factory here, which he will take up with other organizations before deciding among several available localities.

RESUMING OLD PRACTICE.

Traffic men are beginning to wonder if the old time practice of the railroads of running Sunday excursions is going to be resumed. For several years Sunday excursion trains have been unknown. The query is prompted by announcements that the Rock Island will run a Sunday excursion from Nelson to Omaha, via Lincoln, next Sunday, putting on a round trip rate from Lincoln of $1.30, leaving here at 10:07 in the forenoon and returning here at 9:50 in the evening. The round trip rate to Omaha is now $3.96, making a reduction for the special train of $2.16.

PRICE RISE LESS THAN WAGE BULGE

Banking Expert Says That Economies in Production Have Been Responsible for This Result.

George E. Roberts, who prepares a monthly business summary for the National City bank of New York, says that the figures show that in practically all of the industries the rise of prices for the products has been less than the rise of wage rates. This has been obtained by increased investment in labor saving machinery and improvements in industrial methods. He backs up this statement with official government publications.

The particular publication from which he quotes is the government income statistics for 1921, which, while a period of hard times because of the deflation in progress, forms a part of the since 1920 date upon which so many radical speeches have been made. These show that while a number of corporations made money and paid incomes thereon the great majority lost money. This is true in every line of industry. In the packing business, for instance, the profit making group aggregated less than a third the losses of the deficit-making group, the larger ones being hit the worst. The industry as a whol lost $26,000,000 that year.

In the sugar-making industry the net loss was $83,000,000. Much has been heard, he says, of the ability of the coal barons to fix their prices. Yet these figures show that 1,079 companies made net incomes of $92,000,000 while 2,577 companies had losses totaling $72,000,000. Deducting the fifteen million income taxes paid by the first group the business as a whole lost five millions.

The public utilities fared best because their rates are publicly fixed by commissions, and they did not have much loss on their inventories which consist of property in place, much put there before the price rise. The same was true of hotels, restaurants, laundries, and the like.

SIDE TALKS

(By Ruth Cameron.)

The Psychology of Appetite.

The children were racing up and down the beach as a group from our summer colony sat sunning themselves on the sand after the bath hour the other day, and as the youngsters went shouting by, one of the mothers of the group looked after them thoughtfully for a minute and then turned to her companion.

"Your Marjorie is such a healthy well developed child," she said with a sigh. "I wish my Mary looked like that. It's so hard to get her to eat the things she ought to. All she wants is meat and dessert. She never has the appetite for anything else and she just won't drink milk. However do you manage? I heard Marjorie asking asking the maid for a glass of milk the other day. Mary wouldn't ask for it in a thousand years."

"And Oh, the Difference to Me."

"I know," said the mother, "lots of children are like that, and Marjorie didn't used to like it. I always used to put a big glass of milk at her place every meal and try to force her to drink it, and it was the hardest work. And then one day something happened that gave me a new idea. I was ill and the nurse who was taking care of me was out for a walk, so I asked the charwoman to bring me a slice of bread and some milk.

She came in with a big jelly tumbler full of milk in one hand, and a thick slab of bread smeared with chunks of butter in the other. The sight of it was enough! I couldn't touch it. Later, when the nurse came back, she brought in a small tray with one of my filet doilies on it, a wine glass of milk, and three little bread and butter sandwiches cut finger-size. And oh, the difference to me! I took a lesson from that and when I got better I called Marjorie in one afternoon to join me in the lunch which was part of my convalescent program.

The Allure of Daintiness.

"On a small tray I placed a little pitcher of chocolate milk shake, made of cold milk with just a bit of chocolate sirup and vanilla flavoring, a small, stemmed wine glass, and a china plate with two home made cookies cut out with an animal shaped cutter. She was delighted. It was such fun to pour out the drink herself a little at a time and after that she used to look forward to our daily 'party.' Before long she would drink the milk plain without the addition of flavoring but, even today, she will not drink it if it is warm. I'm careful never to have it iced, but it is always cold."

There is more to this matter of appearance and quantity than most people realize when it comes to directing children's tastes in food. I have a friend who requires her small son to take at least a tiny helping of all foods that are on the table. And often that one mouthful goes down so much easier than the lad expected that he asks for more. He has developed a liking for practically every kind of food as a result of this judicious method.

What Do We Like About Ice Cream.

I remember once in a psychology class at college, the professor analyzed the almost universal liking for ice cream and showed us that very little of the appeal is to the sense of taste. The color and the attractiveness of the dish appeal to the eye; the smoothness to the sense of touch the flavor is largely a matter of smelling; the coldness reacts upon that sense which registers the temperature; in fact, it is only the sugar that appeals to the sense of taste.

Which offers some suggestion to the mother with a finicky child's appetite to deal with, don't you think?

Keep Off.

We may not pass o'er yonder leas: "Keep off the Grass" the sign decrees. There's grass to burn 'most everywhere, but we don't yearn to trespass there: no signs announce forbidden ground. there's none to bounce us if we're found. The grass is clean on yonder hills, the grass grows green by rippling rills, and we are free to gambol there: no signs decree we must beware. We do not head that way, alas! We long to tread verboten grass. I view the sign that warns off guys, and scalding brine obscures my eyes. "I'd give." I say, "all kinds of brass, to roll today upon that grass: I'd like to browse upon that green like bobtailed cows or goats, I ween. I'd give my hat, my gems of glass, to stretch out flat upon that grass." And as I view the grassy ground there's quite a crew of nuts around, who mark the sign and cuss in mass; they would recline upon that grass. Forbidden things are always fine; we hate, like jings, the "Keep Off" sign. And that is why some voters take their stoup of rye when they awake. "You must not drink," proclaims the law; they say, "We think we'll swig it raw." The booze they hit, nine times or more, then throw a fit upon the floor. They wake up blind or maybe dead, and have no mind for bitters red."

MOURNED AS DEAD, SAILORS RETURN

DENNIS DRAKE and JOHN TIBO.

After spending three days helplessly floating on the Atlantic ocean after their ship had been wrecked in a gale, Dennis Drake and John Tibo, of Grand Bank, Newfoundland, made port in their little dory. Services for them had been held in the home town church and they had been given up for lost.

IN FLIVVER MARKET.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Sept 17.—While Henry Ford is invading the German market with cheap cars, a counter invasion of America with high-priced home-made cars, is being launched from here. The Maybach concern, makers of the motors which drove the ZR3 on its transatlantic flight, have sent their representative, F. von Meister, to New York to start a campaign aimed at gi-ing Germany, for the first time since the war, a real hold on the "luxury car" trade in America.

Men and Things

Without any doubt the chief reason for the popularity of Coolidge is that he makes few speeches and that in the few that he does make he gives the impression of absolute sincerity thru his failure to promise impossible things and to Point Us to Higher Things. The more speeches a candidate makes the more people he offends because it is not always possible to make one's self understood except thru an elaboration of language that few will read, and the more apt he is to get into an involuntary joint debate with the opposition spokesmen. Not the least reason for his popularity in the sense of voting is that most persons recognize the soundness of his advice that what we need more than anything else in the soltuion of our economic and political problems is common sense.

Every citizen owes it to himself and to his countr yto participate in the elections which determine the policy of the government and the personal of those who shall administer it. This is primary patriotism, and the league of women voters is doing a tremendously fine work in pushing home to every voter the importance of their jobs as citizens. The indifference of the people is difficult to overcome largely because of the growing distaste of men and women for the methods of politics, the insincerity of so many of the party leaders and spokesmen and the unpreety dramas of selfishness staged in the course of a campaign. The campaign to get out the vote would have a better chance of success if preceded by a vigorous campaign to clean up politics.

Free peoples agree on certain fundamentals intended to protect their rights and liberties. These they call a constitution. Then they create courts to determine in part whether the laws that legislatures or congress, under the spur of temporary pressure or emotion, contravene or take away these constitutional guarantees. LaFollette's chief proposal is that whenever a court decrees a legislative enactment unconstitutional, it can be made constitutional by the legislative body re-enacting it. If this had been in effect that last five years the German-Americans who are now listed so strongly in support of the Wisconsin senator would have had saddled on them indefinitely the foreign language law which the federal supreme court held to be an invasion of their constitutional rights.

One of the least harmful of the vanities that best man is the tendency to speechmaking. Mose young men hate being called on for a few remarks, and most old men have an equal repugnance to the effort that accompanies proper preparation. But in middle age there is quite a marked tendency towards garrulity. A man feels that he has made a place for himself in the sun, and a speech now and then serves to direct the limelight of publicity upon him with all the accompanying glowing warmth it sheds. A man also feels that he may help in the solution of the problems of others if he is given a chance to tell how he solved his. The only test we would make is whether a man has anything to say. If he has not a readiness to talk will not cover up the deficiency.

The life insurance companies have a table showing just how few men out of every hundred are found, when sixty-five years old, to be self-supporting. This is startling enough to bring the feeling of soberness to every young man, but we doubt if it has any very wide effect. Its principal benefit, we opine, is its use in getting them lined up for insurance policies, a form of enforced savings. Certainly the young people are our best spenders in the pursuit of what they regard as a good time. A night of hilarious drinking was long regarded as a splendid measure of a good time. The fact that the morning after brought a headache and furry lips and throat did not materially decrease the number of drinks. Waking up at sixty-five a dependent on others is the economic equivalent, the morning after. We doubt if it is any less unpleasant.

It is a sign of intellectual progress for a man to change his opinions if that change comes about thru the operations of his mind and not thru a change in his circumstances and viewpoint. It is a sign of intellectual degeneracy if he has two opinions about everything. A good many people are afflicted in this way, more than you would suspect before you take to running over the list. A good many of us are horrified when we hear of what others do, and yet when we do it ourselves we are full of reasons and excuses. The prevalence of crime is traceable to the possession of two opinions about right and wrong. The natural result is that one loses respect for both, and that inclination and interest thereafter determine which path he will follow.

BRAIN TESTS

(By Sam Loyd.)

Ten Minutes to Ansew This.

A Chinese coin counter in a western bank has gained considerable reputation as a lightning calculator, and the customers are continually trying to stump him with tricky demands for their cash.

Here is an example of what Sing Lee has to put up with:

A customer passed a United States' bank note thru the window and said:

"I want this changed into smaller bills. Give me half as many tens as twenties, half as many fives as tens, half as many twos as fives, half as many ones as twos, and the balance in fifties."

As the Chinaman handed out the proper change he remarked: "That's the smallest bill that would pay for that sort of an order."

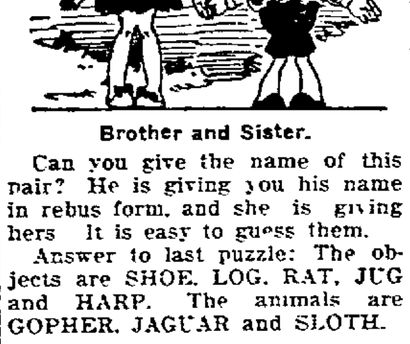

Now, who can tell how many fifties the customer received?

Answer to Yesterday's.

The Rhode Island towns are: Manville, Warren and Ashton.

OUR DAILY PUZZLE

(By Walter Wellman.)

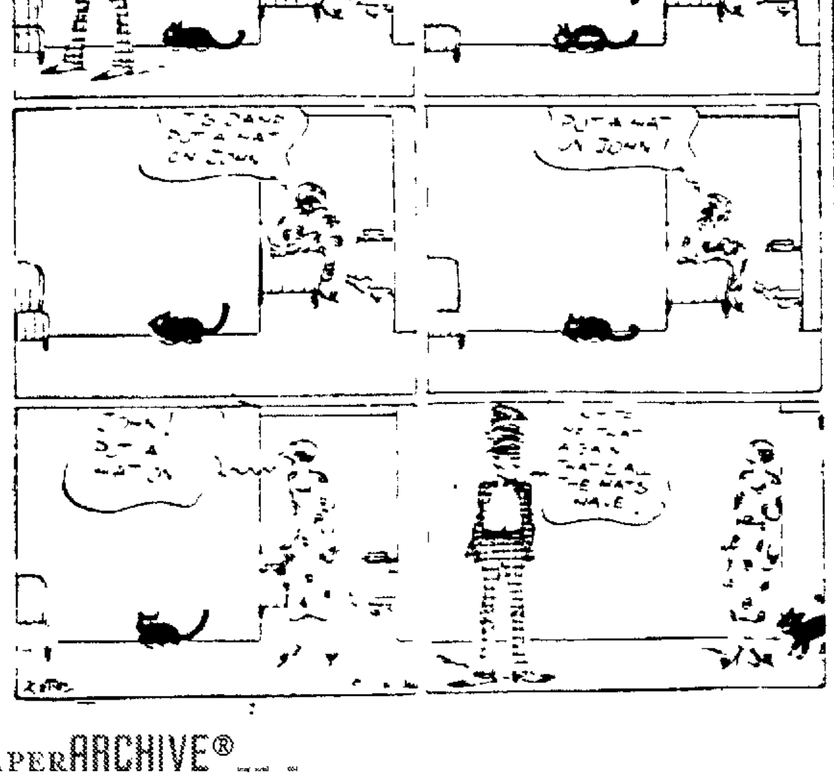

Brother and Sister.

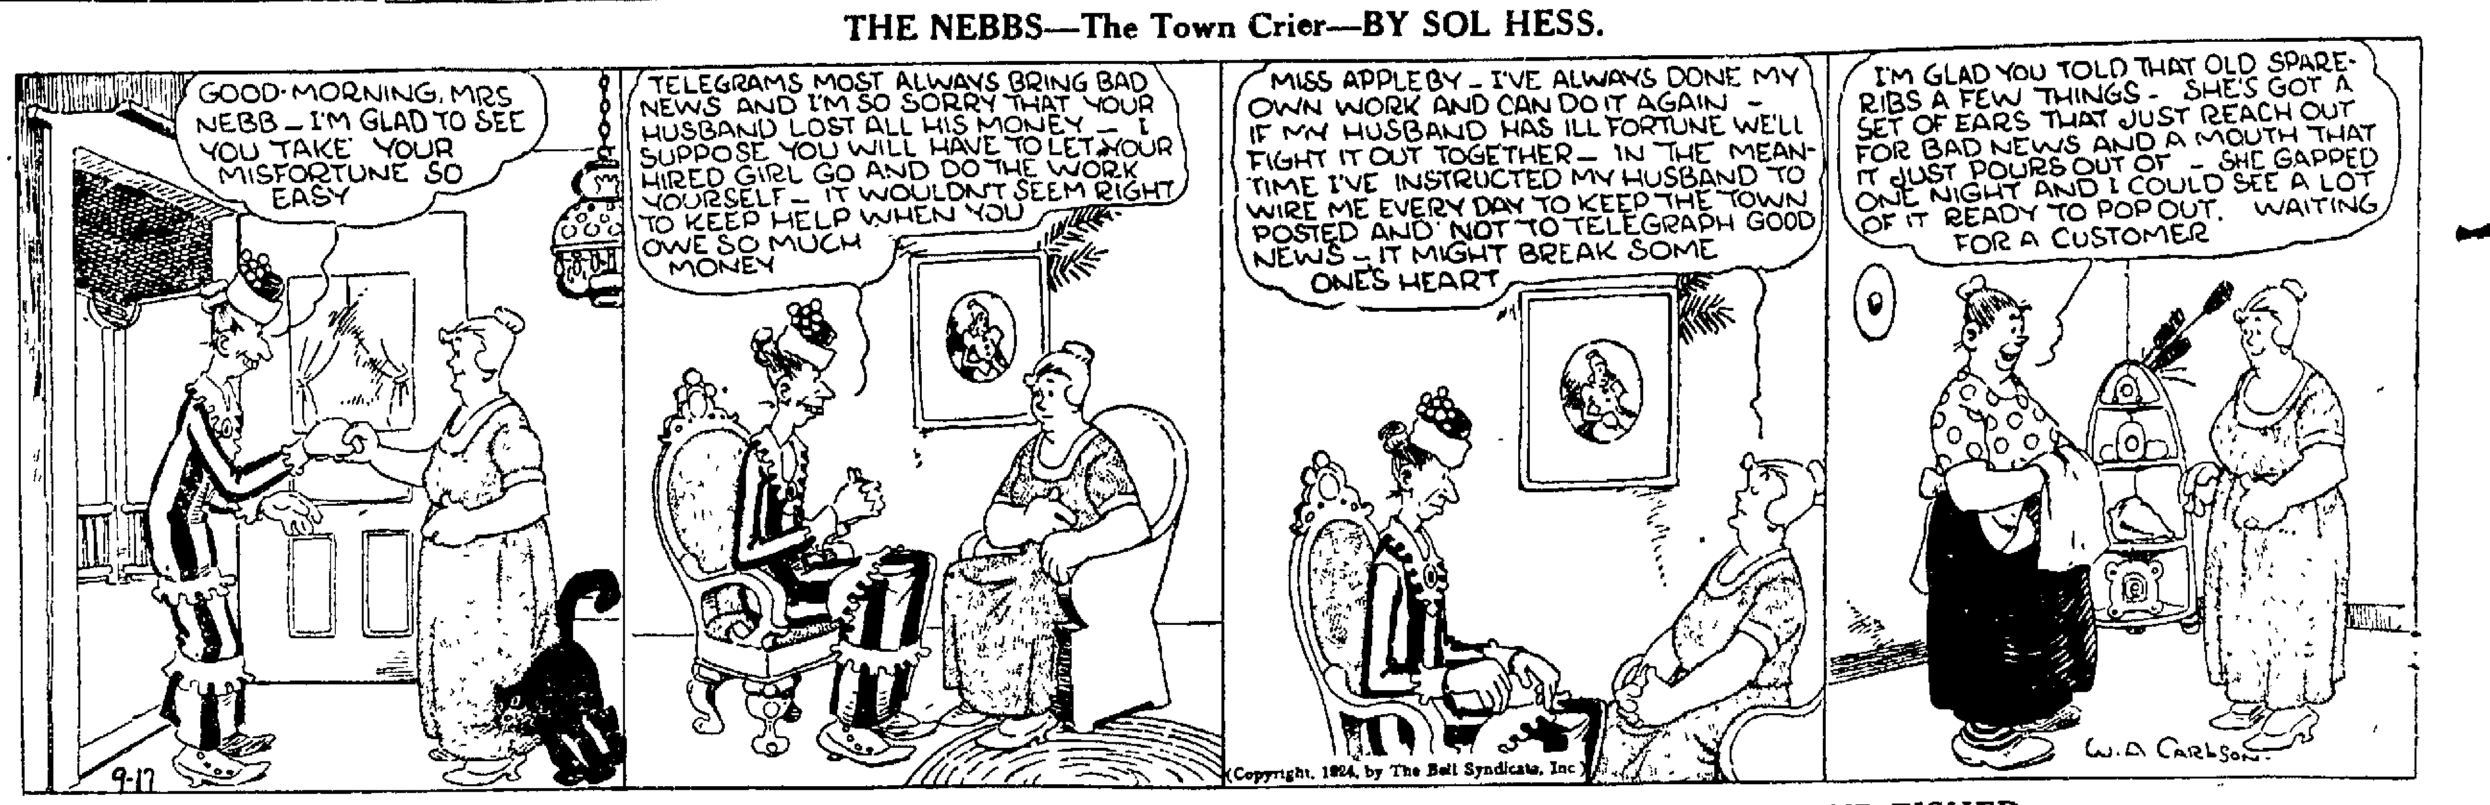

Can you give the name of this pair? He is giving you his name in rebus form, and she is giving hers. It is easy to guess them.

Answer to last puzzle: The objects are SHOE, LOG, RAT, JUG and HARP. The animals are GOPHER, JAGUAR and SLOTH.
